Our Graduates and Andergraduates

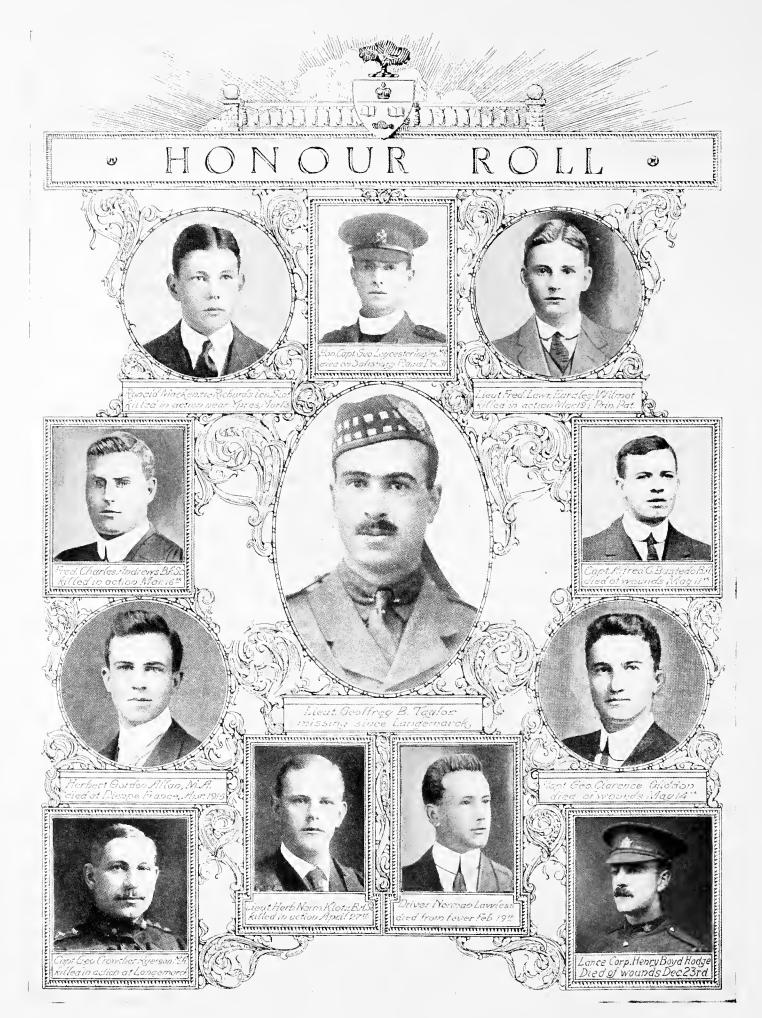

Dead on the Rields of France and Flanders

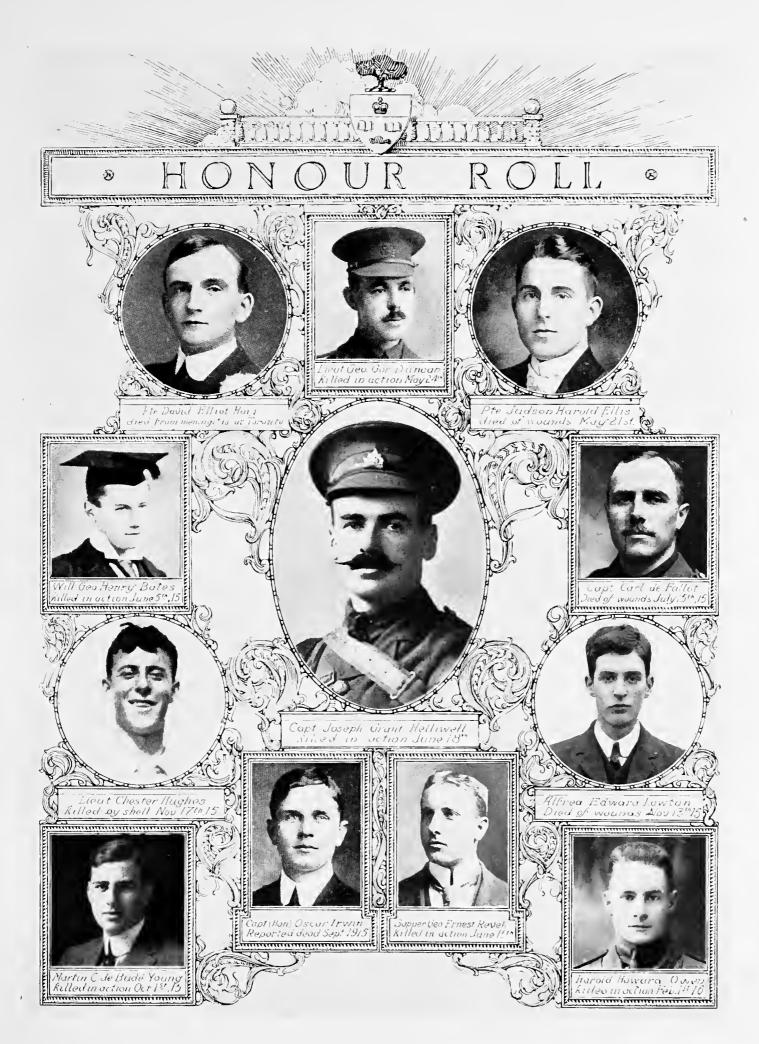

The Class of 1916 have the honour of dedicating this Eighteenth Bolume of Torontonensis

ON THE FIELD

HONOUR

HE two or three pages preceding contain the pictures of those men whose names appear on the dedicatory insert, except in one or two instances, where, owing to the obvious difficulty of inserting late material the name of Gordon G. Galloway is omitted from the list and the picture of Stuart Kennedy from the portrait groups. The six or eight pages following contain the names of approximately 1,800 'Varsity men "On Active Service." Since going to press 350 other men have enlisted and their names are consequently not included. There are therefore about 2,150 graduates and students of the University of Toronto "On Active Service" at the present time. Among these are two members of the Board of Governors, two members of the Senate and eighty-five members of the Faculty. All branches of military service, artillery, infantry, aviation and medical, have claimed these men, and they are identified with numerous batteries, battalions and corps. Of the entire company thirty-three have been killed and sixty-three wounded.—E.

HE names of those from this University who, within the past year, have fallen for their country will be held in perpetual remembrance for their honorable career. In the next generation it will be of small account that they did not fill out the span of life that was to be expected of them when they matriculated and that all died young. What they did in a few months will be a memory retold in old age by their comrades to their children, and many a student in the future will wonder what manner of men they were, and will ask himself whether if the call came to him he also would face his duty as they did, and die as they died. They will become in some sort a concrete standard for their successors, a traditional conscience for public service. In course of years their contemporaries will grow old and pass away one by one, but these men who went out of life near together at this eventful time will always remain young, remembered as they were in their prime, of bodily strength unabated, of dauntless courage, of fair fame, the example in this university for untold years of virtuous Canadian youth who, though they lived far from the rumours and preparations of war, did not refuse to yield their lives for the maintenance of those principles which outlast all human life and give substance and worth to the pilgrimage of each, whether it be for twenty years or fourscore.

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO CONTINGENT....CANADIAN OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS, 1915-1916

C.O.T.C. MARCH PAST

THEN term opened in October, 1915, the C. O. T. C. at once resumed its activities. Since the holding of the May Camp the class of 1915 had graduated, and several members of the junior years had gone on active service; others had obtained commissions in militia regiments and were preparing to go overseas. But as there was a fairly large entry in the new First Year, the strength of the corps was about the same as last year, namely, 1,500.

Some changes were made in the composition of the companies. Owing to the reduced registration in the Faculty of Applied Science, a large number of students from the Ontario Veterinary College were enrolled in H. Company, and a platoon in K. Company was made up entirely of members of the Teaching Staff. The University Club platoon was enlarged and organized as N. Company. The two O. A. C. Companies training at Guelph were also attached to the U. of T. contingent.

In the Michaelmas term a series of successful field days were held at Cedarvale, giving opportunities for practice in route-marching, extended order work, and attack movements.

The Corps held its Church Parade on Sunday, Nov. 14th, to Convocation Hall, where the address was given by Principal Hutton of University College.

Uniforms were available for nearly all members, but no rifles for the first portion of the year. Ultimately "Martini Henry's" were provided in sufficient numbers to enable all to have the requisite practice in the "Manual" and for portions of the firing exercises. The few Mark III Ross Rifles available had to be carefully shared for the remainder of the Musketry instruction.

In the matter of efficiency, the Corps was on the whole in a much better position than before. The majority of the members had gone through last year's training, so that prolonged recruit-drills on a large scale were no longer necessary, and the more advanced work with "mutual instruction" could begin at once. Many of the officers of the Corps had taken courses at Niagara during the summer and were better qualified for the work of instruction. Among the N.C.O.'s were several undergraduates now holding Certificate A. and others received commissions in the Corps, their services being retained till they left to join overseas units.

On the other hand the Corps experienced some difficulties, especially through the latter part of the year, owing to the loss, complete or partial, of many of its best members who during the session were leaving to join the Expeditionary Forces or to take up important Active Service duties in

SERGT.-MAJOR HUNT. 21 Years' Service, Royal Welsh Fusiliers

Canada. There is no reason to regret these losses, as the Corps exists to lose its good men as soon as they are found.

Thus among the officers alone, Major McVicar, Captain Ryerson and Lieuts. Armour, Graham and Gallie had gone with the University Hospital; Major Le Pan, Captains Bramfitt and Madill and Lieut. Kenrick were on the staff of the School of Instruction under Lieut. Col. Lang; Major Massey and Captain Cochrane were on the Musketry Staff at Exhibition Camp; Lieut. Coventry was assistant Divisional Intelligence Officer; Captain C. R. Young was Adjutant of the Toronto Depot Battalion; Captains G. M. Smith, A. W. McConnell, E. J. Kylie, W. S. Wallace, V. E. Henderson and A. Foulds, and Lieuts. Hagarty, Scott, Pearce, Fenton, Hopkins. Mitchener, Cheney, Robinson, Morris, Heywood, Fennell, Brouse, H. J. Manning, Thomas, Legge, Philpott, Rosser, Fraser, Dixon, Carlyle, T. R. Manning, Howell, Horner, MacKendrick, Sinclair, Gilbert and Elder joined overseas units, besides others who held appointments in the C.O.T.C. for a short time and then received commissions in the new Expeditionary Force Battalions.

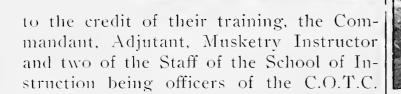

The record of the Corps as a means of providing officers may be noted. Most of the successful candidates for Certificate A. in May, 1915, subsequently obtained commissions in the overseas forces. Besides the Certificate A. men, others were granted Militia Commissions and qualified in the ordinary way by taking courses at the School of Instruction at Niagara in the summer of 1915, or in Toronto in the winter of 1915-16. The Corps can hardly claim full credit for producing these latter officers, but it may reasonably be argued that the experience gained in the ranks of the C.O.T.C. was useful to them and proved to be a recommendation to the Commanding Officers of Militia Regiments in making the appointments. On the other hand, the Corps has in a measure a right

C.O.T.C. OFF FOR NIAGARA, 1915

The results of the Proficiency Examinations for 1916 are not yet published. With a year's additional experience in preparation, the proportion of successful candidates should be larger than in 1915. Owing to the urgency of the hour, with a very few exceptions only those who are prepared shortly to go overseas have been allowed to present themselves for examination.

In November an offer came from the British War Office to accept for provisional commissions in the Imperial Army any members of the Corps who were recommended by the Officer Commanding, subject to the approval of the Militia authorities at Ottawa. On Dec. 31st the first draft of 31 left for England. Some of these received commissions in the Royal Field Artillery, the Royal Garrison Artillery and the remainder in the Infantry. A second list was prepared in February and 35 were accepted. Probably other drafts will go later.

Many have left the Corps to go overseas in the ranks—more, perhaps, than has been generally realized, as they have not left simultaneously in a large body, but have gone singly or in small groups to join various units, such as the Universities Companies reinforcing the P.P.C.L.I., the Divisional Signal Corps, the 43rd Howitzer Battery, etc. Judging from the experience of those who went into the ranks in 1914-15, it may be expected that several of these will become N.C.O.'s and eventually obtain commissions.

The following are approximately the figures to date of officers and members of the Corps on active service:

With commissions	218
In the ranks—
	2. Aviation 42
3. Infantry 183	4. Medical 110
5. Other Units

What the future of the Corps will be next year cannot be predicted. It may be that in this hour of need it will have served its purpose and sent forth to the front all its members who are fit to go. Unless, however, the war ends sooner than now seems likely, there will still be work to do, though on a smaller scale. New men will be coming up from the Schools to the University not sufficiently mature to go at once on active service. These must be trained and prepared for the task still lying before Canadians.

The appointment of Lieut.-Col. Lang. Officer Commanding the Corps, to be General Staff Officer in charge of Instruction for No. 2

THE ARMOURIES, TORONTO

Military Division, is especially gratifying to all members of the Corps. The importance of his present work can be estimated when it is stated that already over 2,000 officers in the largest Military Division in Canada have been trained under his guidance and supervision. Col. Lang has also voluntarily relinquished his commission in the Engineers—after nearly thirty years' commissioned service in that arm—and transferred entirely to the C.O.T.C.

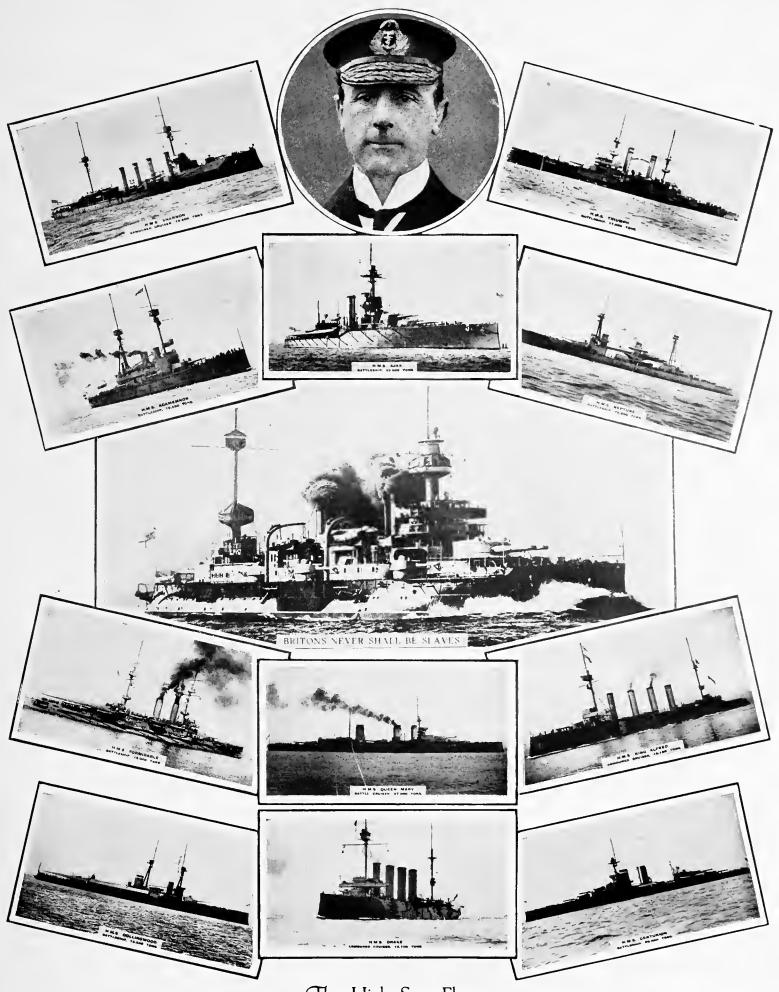

All past and present members of the Corps are asked to assist in the keeping of its Record of Military Services. A card index is being prepared of all those who have gone on active service. It is important that the list of names should be kept complete and the information up to date. Members who go overseas are asked to send news, even if only in the briefest form, of themselves and their fellow-members regarding their subsequent services, promotions, transfers, etc., addressing communications to the C.O.T.C. Orderly Room, Mining Building.

In conclusion mention should be made of those members who have already fallen or suffered in the war. At present most of the casualties among 'Varsity men have been among those who went to the front before the Corps was organized. But already on the Roll of Honour are recorded the names of Bombardier Ross M. Taylor (C. Company) Divisional Ammunition Column, killed in action; Lieut. T. S. Gordon (D. Company) 11th Batt. Border Regiment, died of wounds; and Private J. S. Ditchburn (E. Company) 19th Batt., wounded.

TORONTONENSIS, 1916

HE eighteenth volume of Torontonensis is what the members of this year's Editorial Board have to offer their fellow-students after five months of strenuous effort. The work involved in its production this session has, for obvious reasons, been rendered exceedingly difficult. Of the eighteen hundred graduates and undergraduates from the University of Toronto "On Active Service," a good percentage were members of the present graduating year.

The military section occupies first position in the book and is a unique feature inasmuch as the dedication is "In Memoriam" of our valiant student associates, dead on the battlefields of France and Flanders. Besides the pictures of this noble band, who fell defending our Empire and the cause of civilization, these pages include the names of a larger and no less heroic company "On Active Service" who are ready to take "their" places.

The colleges' section, which immediately follows, contains the portraits and biography of each student graduating in the respective faculties and departments of Arts, Medicine, Applied Science and Engineering, Dentistry, Forestry, Pharmacy, Veterinary, Theology and Social Service. In addition there are included photographs and write-ups of class executives, committees, fraternities and sororities as well as numerous clubs and societies connected with the various federated and affiliated colleges.

The athletic teams and executives, however, which usually occupy a very prominent place, are wanting in this edition, for the reason that the "Blue and White" early last term decided to withdraw temporarily from all intercollege athletic contests.

In concluding, it may be added that throughout the Editor has scrupulously endeavoured to preserve the dignity of the publication, as a token of respect for the boys whose names appear on the dedicatory insert, by excluding from its pages all matter, cartoons, drawings, etc., which might derogate therefrom.

The Torontonensis Board is constituted as follows: An editor-in-chief, appointed by the Students' Administrative Council, chairman of the Board; a business manager, appointed also by the Students' Council, secretary of the Board; representative students, elected during the Michaelmas term from the various graduating classes. The personnel of this year's Board, according as the respective sections appear in the book, is:

Students' Administrative Council

ACK in 1906, the Parliament of Undergraduates, a debating society, was inaugurated and strove to discuss national problems. The membership ranged around one hundred and forty, a huge organization with little power, and its main function that of being "a unifying force in the University." From this Parliament of undergraduates, through the faithful efforts of such men as Professor T. R. London, the present Students' Administrative Council emerged.

The Council is composed of twenty-eight members, with an executive of seven, namely, the President, Vice-President, Recording Secretary, Treasurer, Convenor of the Athletic and Discipline Committee, the Convenor of the Committee on Literary Organizations, the Convenor of Musical Organizations and the General Secretary. Owing to war conditions, the Oratorical Contest, Theatre Night, the Glee Club and the Musical Association have been suspended. The General Secretary is secretary of all meetings of the Council and committees, and is also business manager of The Varsity, and its supplements, Torontonensis, The Students' Directory, Rooters' Club, etc.

This centralization of management has eliminated a great deal of empty discussion and placed students' business on a business basis. The reign of the amateur in student money-handling has passed and in future years instead of deficits, there will be efficient management and surpluses.

The compulsory fee of one dollar per male student in Arts, Medicine and Science has been increased to two dollars, with Forestry and Deutistry also included. The Council are now to give every male student the Varsity during his course and a copy of Torontonensis upon graduation.

The academic year that is passing has been one of greatest activity for the Executive and members of the Students' Administrative Council. The Trafalgar Day Campaign, when $3,404.15 was turned over to the British Red Cross Society, the clearing of the ground preparatory to the authorization of a University of Toronto Overseas Unit, the necessity of keeping all faculties, through their representatives, in constant touch with every development in the situations have required the greatest self-sacrifice and loyalty on the part of the members. At the present time, the Council is preparing to launch into another campaign in aid of the Serbian and Polician Pol

Belgian Relief Funds.

The increasing need of a central student control with an organization capable of reaching every undergraduate at an hour's notice has raised the demand for the election of only the most competent representatives. Each faculty must send its strongest men to the Council. Each representative is required to place matters of panuniversity moment before his constituents and only men of vision and breadth of perspective should be sent to interpret to their faculties the issues at stake. A membership on the Executive of the Students' Administrative Council is the highest executive honor and position to which a student may aspire.

The various functions under the business management of the General Secretary have flourished this year. The Varsity has been enlarged and the volume of advertising greatly increased. One thousand dollars, the first instalment of the proceeds from The Varsity War Supplement, published last July, has been turned over to The Varsity Base Hospital and another larger cheque will follow shortly.

The Varsity Magagine Supplement promises to eclipse the previous supplement both as a literary effort and a financial success.

Torontonensis, bound in leather, changed and improved with a special thirty-two page military section, promises to be a big success. It is essential that every male student should pay his annual compulsory fee each year of his attendance at University or he will not be entitled to a copy of the year book upon graduation.

The Students' Directory, which for financial and other considerations was published late this year, has a modest surplus. In future years, an editorial board will supervise the compiling of lists and thus release the General Secretary, who will use his time in solicitation of advertising.

The Students' Administrative Council has had no occasion to exercise its disciplinary powers and desires to thank the student body for its splendid co-operation.

COLLIER C. GRANT,

General Secretary.

Class---1916---History

N common with all other interests the Class of 1916 has felt the influence of the conditions arising in a time of great war. The most striking feature has been the depletion of our numbers, for while the attendance of the ladies has not been noticeably affected that of the male element was far below its normal at the beginning of the college year and has since decreased perceptibly. Interest in purely academic affairs has been lessened by the absorbing influence of problems which have presented themselves in other departments, particularly in Red Cross and military spheres, while many of the social events, which in normal times would seem indispensible to the life of a graduating class, have been omitted from the programme for the year.

Nevertheless, custom could not be broken altogether, and the annual class reception was held in the University Schools on November 27. This event, the last of its kind for 1T6 as a class, was smaller in point of numbers than those of former years, but not less enjoyable, and will be remembered as an unqualified success. On more than one occasion, also, the West Hall has laid aside the grimness with which we have always thought of it at the time of examinations and taken on a more genial aspect when the class has assembled there to "Sometimes counsel take—and sometimes tea." In the words of one of our demagogues, "Education grows from the clash of ideas," and our class-meetings have furnished the opportunity of association without which our education would have been but partially complete. The success of such gatherings has been due largely to an csprit de corps which has characterized 1T6 from the first, and which in four years has developed into an enthusiasm for co-education as the system par excellence.

No sphere of college life has remained entirely unaffected by the present momentous happenings, but we have been particularly and constantly reminded of changed conditions by the military activity everywhere apparent about the University. The front campus, its velvety surface once so jealously guarded by signs and barricades, has been worn bare by the tramping feet of khaki-clad men, and stentorian words of command have disturbed us at lectures and in the library. We have seen the jurisdiction of the Registrar invaded, and the curriculum and timetables altered to permit military drill and Red Cross work a place in the routine of student life. But the most striking of all departures from sacred tradition is the change that has made the month of May no longer the dread of our lives, but by curtailing the academic year by a full month brings us face to face with the "Powers that be" in April.

Four years ago we came together with not the slightest thought that the year of our graduation would see our country taking her part in the greatest struggle of history. Already our class is splendidly represented among those who have left the University in response to the call of duty, and before the end of the term our numbers will be depleted still further. All honor to these, our heroes! Those of us who remain realize that we also have our part to play in the struggle between liberty and despotism. We realize that we are surrounded by conditions never experienced by students at any previous time in the history of the world. To us there is granted a fuller consciousness of our duty as educated men and women than has been enjoyed by any former class, for as graduates of our Alma Mater at such a time as the present we must be prepared to do our part in solving the problems which the war must inevitably raise in Canada. The future is for us, as for all, full of uncertainty, yet it is full, it is certain, of opportunity, all the greater for the tasks it involves.

Howard B. Armstrong

HERSCHEL ALT

"Prend moi tel que vous voulez."

Born in Russia in '97. At an early age he came to Canada and settled in Bracebridge. An ambition to tread the higher paths of learning led him to Varsity. Here his energetic disposition manifested itself not only in the University affairs but also in matters pertaining to the welfare of his race. His juristic ambitions are no doubt due to Mosaic inspiration.

PHYLLIS A. ANDERSON

"An inviting eye; and yet methinks right modest."

The Model School and Branksome Hall prepared Phyllis for the University. Here she has taken an active part in college life, serving on the executives of several societies, and winning universal affection.

GLADYS C. ANGUS

'' 'εσθλης γυναικός οὐδεν κτημα τιμιώτερον.'

Gladys was born in Toronto. Received her preparatory education at P. C. I. Inspired by the desire to study classics she decided to come to Varsity, but very soon she found that the general was the broader way. In her Freshman year she was on the Class Executive. Her hobby is synopsizing and memorizing religion notes. She is a member of the Beta Delta Pi Sorority.

HOWARD B. ARMSTRONG

"In faith he is a worthy gentleman, Exceedingly well read."

"Navy" was ushered into reality at Mayfield, Ont. After absorbing a preliminary education, through his head and otherwise, he continued to satisfy his unquenchable thirst by entering M. & P. He has always taken a keen interest in class activities as well as serving on the executive of the M. & P. Society.

MARGERY I. AUSTIN

"A merry heart goes all the way."

Margery came from Parkdale Collegiate with a scholar-ship and enrolled in English and History. As Class Poetess in her second year her genius was marked. By combining work and play she has won the reputation of a good conrade and true friend.

GRACE S. T. BAILLIE

"She has wit and song and sense, Mirth and sport and eloquence."

"Grace's" optimistic outlook on life has survived the struggle at Eglinton Public School, Jarvis Collegiate and the Household Science Course of the University.

L. MARIE BATEMAN

"She doeth little kindnesses Which most leave undone."

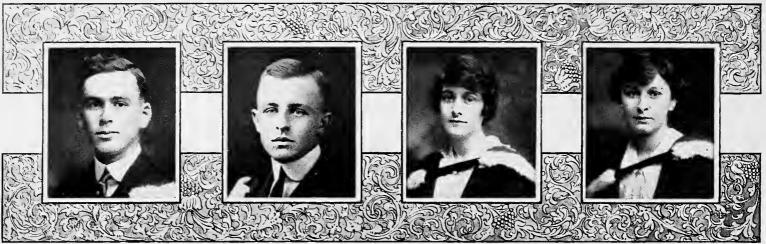

From Riverdale Collegiate, Toronto Normal and a year's teaching Marie entered 1T6. She has brought to her varied interests and understandings in college, good sense and capability, and to her friends, thoughtfulness and staunch friendship,

LESLIE C. R. BATTEN

"A goodly portly man i' faith."

"Les" radiates the geniality characteristic of those who incline to rotundity—hence his popularity. Toronto is his birthplace, but Saskatchewan the land of his adoption. Four years at Varsity have not quenched his thirst for knowledge. Success, as a jurist.

Mayhap it was Diogenes' quest, mayhap that of a fount of knowledge with a proper spigot that caused Eugenia to desert Bryn Mawr and other American seats of learning for Toronto. The quotation intends no slight to any of her universities. One year gave us in Toronto her "Ave atque vale."

GEORGINA M. BOWERS

"Graceful and useful all she does, Blessing and blest where e'er she goes."

Born at Mongolia in prehistoric times. Educated at Markham High School. Trained at Faculty of Education, then entered University College. She is famous for her cooking at the Y.W.C.A. lunch-room.

SAIDEE N. BOYD

"She was stately, young and tall."

Transplanted when young, from the "ould sod," Saidee has grown beautiful—ly. From Riverdale Collegiate she entered '16 in Household Science. Her high intellect and stature have given her a broad outlook. May she keep it!

MARY BOYLE

"Sweet and sincere."

Although early interested in Medicine, this "bonnie lassie," entering Socrates' realms, assiduously applied herself to defeating aims of crafty Arts'-professors. Pink cheeks and a merry smile won her many friends, and, as President of the Women's Lit., Molly graduates, all bidding life's success.

NORMA P. BRANDON

"Her hair is not more sunny than her heart."

Norma is one of our fair Torontonians whose love of knowledge led her to join the famous class of '16. She has proved herself a good student when occasion required, and a merry companion when the time permitted.

WALLACE E. BROWN

"He hails from the West."

Born in Manitoba, 1895, he secured his matriculation in Winnipeg, and entered the general course of Class '16. Examinations have always been his hoodoo but perseverance has had its reward. He intends practising law in the West.

FLORENCE S. BUCHNER

"A winsome lass, she's fair and sweet.

Her heart is true, she's trim and neat,

But best of all, her pies and cake

Are such as mother used to make."

Such may be said of Florence Buchner, a graduate of Branksome Hall, who has proved an enthusiastic student in Household Science.

M. Jean Bull

Lovedy J. Campeau

Helen R. Carlyle

William A. Carment

M. JEAN BULL

"Fair with honorable cycs Sweet and wise."

From Weston comes our smiling Jean. She has won the highest honors in English and History. Her friends are many. In college societies she takes a lively part. We all expect great things of Jean.

LOVEDY J. CAMPEAU

". . . Bright face crescent-hewed And throat by muses moulded."

Lovedy won a scholarship and was beguiled into entering Moderns, from which she is firmly resolved to escape by graduating, in spite of the frantic entreaties of the friends she leaves behind.

HELEN R. CARLYLE

"A cheerful companion is worth gold."

Helen was born in Toronto. Preparatory education at Jarvis Collegiate. Entered Varsity with the Class of 'lo and joined with those seeking enjoyment in the General Course. On the first year executive Helen capably filled the office of prophetess. Her ready wit and genial nature have endeared her to all.

WILLIAM A. CARMENT

"The great felicity of life is to be without perturbation."

Bill was his name and it will be safe to say that no one knew him as William, except his mother. Born in Kamloops, B.C., a little over two decades ago. At the present time he is a lieutenant in the 122nd Overseas Battalion. His associated Arts graduates wish him well.

Class---1917---History

√HE members of the Class of '17 returned this year to the venerable halls of University College with their ranks greatly depleted by the ravages of war, that is, so far as the male side of the Class is concerned. There are forty-three of the Class now on active service overseas and several who are at the present time training for officers. Many of the Class have the intention of joining the colors in the near future, so that to all appearance there will be so few men enrolled next year that the fair sex will constitute by far the greater majority of students.

The sum of thirty dollars was contributed by the members of the Class towards sending souvenirs to our classmates overseas, in the form of tobacco and chocolate.

It is of great satisfaction to the members of '17 to know that, with so many of our comrades on the firing-line, only one of their names has appeared on the casualty list—that of Lieut. F. H. Smith, of the Royal Flying Corps, who will be remembered as one of our first year classmates. Lieut. Smith was temporarily incapacitated by having his feet, hands and back frozen while flying at a height of 10,000 feet.

The Class held their regular annual reception on Dec. 4, 1915. An innovation was made by the third year in differing from the old custom of holding these functions in University Schools. Columbus Hall was secured by the Class and the brilliant success which attended this reception will be remembered for some time.

This year the members of '17 undertook a new and extremely necessary duty which, in the ordinary course of events, should have devolved upon the Sophomores. These latter, however, being totally unsuited to their task, the very unpleasant yet necessary duty of effacing the bumptiousness of the "frosh" was undertaken by the members of the third year. Several sanguinary conflicts took place which, needless to say, resulted in victory for the third year. The "frosh" may now be observed exhibiting the peaceful decorum and respect due to upper classmen.

With so many of the Class now serving their country on active service and so many more who will be overseas before the opening of another session, the Class of '17 may well be proud of their comrades who are upholding the honor of Old Varsity and unite in wishing them safe conduct and a speedy return.

Isobel M. Cassidy

CAROLYN E. CARSON

"I would do anything to serve a friend."

Calgary is Carolyn's native city, where she received her early education. After a few years in Westminster College and Harbord Collegiate, she entered Toronto University, taking General Course with Household Science option.

MARGUERITE M. CASSELMAN

"Wisdom of what herself approves makes choice. Nor is led captive by the common voice."

Matriculating from Oakwood Collegiate, Madge came to Varsity to satiate her arduous longing for knowledge. Her chief characteristic is aptly expressed in "Tho' vanquished, she could argue still."

ISOBEL M. CASSIDY

"Let me play Thisby too."

The star of the Women's Dramatic Club, of which she has been president for two years; a clever debater, an irre-pressible punster and a jolly good fellow. Isobel's talents and winning personality have made her one of the most popular members of Newman Club and of Onety-Six.

HILDA W. CHRISTIE

"She acquires strength as she goes."

Productive Orillia has sent us another capable daughter. From the collegiate Hilda entered upon her university career in Toronto. Her four years have been full of enthusiastic interest in college activities, both academic and social.

GORDON H. CODE

"Great men are moulded out of faults."

Though small in stature, "Gord" is gifted with a large and generous heart. A born fighter—he knows how to take a joke and pay it back. He believes in things being up to standard—not down to a price. We wish him all success as Captain-Paymaster of the 169th.

EMILY S. COPELAND

"To dance till finches chirrup And stars sink to the sea."

After developing physically in Collingwood, she expanded mentally at St. Margarets. Four years among the élite at Queen's Hall have brought her as near perfection as mortals can hope.

CHRISTINA C. COOPER

"Plays well the game, and knows the limit,
And still gets all the fun there's in it."

Christina received her early education in Bristol, England, and at Havergal College, Toronto. Besides taking a high standing in her course, Moderns, she has always entered enthusiastically into college activities.

HELEN W. CURRIE

"Thy voice is sweet, as if it took Its music from thy face."

Coming from Harbord, Helen entered Moderns rather earlier than the law allows. She was class prophetess as a junior and has won many friends through her gift for music and her sweet disposition.

HELEN E. d'AVIGNON

"Did'st catch the uncouth name."

Helen d'Avignon, alias Helen d'Av. Native of Windsor. In 1912 was detected entering English and History. Sentenced to four years' hard labor in various offices. 1915 raised for good behavior to presidency of Women's Athletic Association. Confirmed basket-ball enthusiast.

CHAS. S. AND WM. B. DICKSON

"Much may be said on both sides."

The Dickson duet was first heard on April 22nd, 1895, at Niagara Falls, Out. The concert has been going on ever since, and promises to have an unusual run. Harmony sometimes prevails. By discriminating friends called "Chiddy" and "Bill," but by the vast majority known either collectively as "the Dickies," or individually as "Dickie," No one recipe for identification available. Unlike most severe cases of 176 P. & B. diagnosis reveals enthusiasm for work. Equally successful at tennis and controversy. Bachelors elect.

Class---1918---History

Onety-Eight has lost the verdant hue of a season just gone by, and acquired the cosmopolitan air and confident manner becoming to Sophomores and those who have successfully baffled all the professors of University College at least once and have good hopes of doing so three more times. The Class returned to Varsity this fall fully realizing its new responsibilities and eager to perform the great part it is to play in the history of the University.

To begin with Onety-Eight has established a precedent in the matter of inter-year scraps which will not readily be set aside. In the shadow of the great world conflict, college scraps have been swallowed up and relegated to the ranks of dead letters. But let it not be thought that Onety-Eight lacks the warlike spirit of its predecessors—far from it. Her sons diligently drill on the campus and already many have gone to serve their country; her daughters as diligently click their knitting-needles and engage in other patriotic exercises. Also dark hints of dire vengeance to be taken on certain very fresh "frosh" are whispered abroad and already their president has felt our correcting hand in warning.

Our reception, while it is still in the future, promises to be a huge social success; and thereby hangs a tale—a tale of an unruly class meeting, of a keenly contested election and of subsequent slander and sedition, causing the hair of the Class officials prematurely to turn grey with worry and unaccustomed hard thinking.

Athletics probably hold a lesser place than ever before in the history of 'Varsity. Her sons have become soldiers first and athletes and students afterward; her daughters are filled with the earnest desire to serve their country in other capacities. Still we cannot forget that in the ranks of Onety-Eight are some of 'Varsity's foremost athletes. Tennis, hockey, basketball, all other forms of sport, have Onety-Eight's stars in their line-up.

In short Onety-Eight promises to be a Class which will leave lasting impressions on every field of college activity and will long live in the memories of professors, who will anxiously watch the further rapid progress toward scholastic eminence of its many brilliant members.

Jack matriculated from the Seaforth C. I. with the Third Edward Blake Scholarship in General Proficiency. His keen executive ability has been shown on many committees—in his senior year as treasurer of his Class and of Mock Parliament, vice-president of the Y.M.C.A. and president of the Commerce and Finance Club.

HERBERT V. DOBSON

"A man of sound and composed mind."

Herb took his first soothing syrup in Oro, Ont. Matric. at Wingham, Ont. Entered B. & P. in 1912. Herb will continue his studies with 1T9 Medicine.

ANNIE DOUGLAS

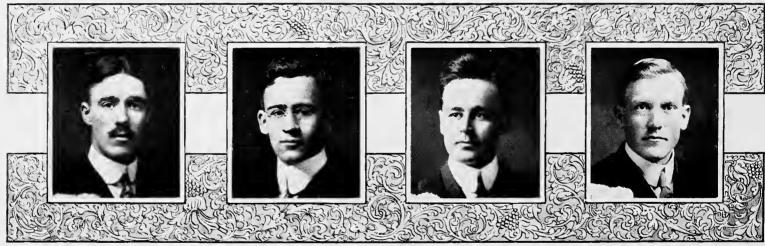

"A link of gold in the chain of life."

From Dunnville, Anne entered the Household Science Course in 1912. She served on Class Executives, Queen's Hall House Committees and, in spite of all distractions, pursued the even tenor of her way.

HAROLD DRUMMOND

"Better late than never."

Only those who do not know Drummond will say that this quotation is not applicable. Harold has chosen the calendar rather than the watch as his chronometer and this probably accounts for his inability to be punctual at lectures and other things. Down south with the aviation corps and the best wishes of the class are extended to him.

Class---1919---History

fortnight after the Ides of September, the traditional halls of University College were filled with a large number of unsophisticated students, eager to gain all that university life offers. There was racing and chasing through the halls for enrolment, and new friendships started.

The gentlemen were welcomed to the University in an able address delivered by Principal Hutton, at a banquet under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Although the real initiation of the men was dispensed with this year, there were a few minor hustles which caused a small sensation, owing to the fact the the Freshmen were victorious. The ladies, however, were welcomed in the time-honored way at the Guy Fawkes party. At this thrilling event little red devils pranced about painting the cheeks of pale freshettes and prodding the unwilling to perform the tasks assigned them by the Devil of Ceremonies.

The year soon showed its energetic nature in organizing and withstanding the encroachments of the combined forces of proverbially all-powerful Sophomores and a few super-abundantly spirited Juniors, and in the expulsion of the aforesaid disturbers from the polling booth during the elections. The Juniors, when they saw that they were being defeated, resorted to that old-time weapon, the fire-hose. But a few athletic Freshmen soon wrenched this instrument of warfare from their cluches and restored peace.

Soon after the elections, we held our first class meeting, which was a brilliant success. The members of the different courses became acquainted and welded together, making a firm foundation for the three following years which are to be spent beneath the sacred towers of University College.

The Freshettes have shown remarkable ability along sporting lines, notably tennis and basketball. Again, in the "Lit." our young ladies have distinguished themselves and have also taken a great interest in Red Cross work, spending most of their spare time knitting. Several of the men have volunteered for active service and have already received commissions.

From present indications there is predicted a very successful future for the Class of 1919.

"The best of men have ever loved repose."

Born at Qu'Appelle, Sask., 1893. Matriculated from Medicine Hat High School 1912. Joined Class of 1T6 in same year. He has the best wishes of the Class.

EDWARD C. GORDON

"Work-work, Till the brain begins to swim."

Toronto Model School, the University Schools and some U. C. professors may bear witness to the suitableness or otherwise of this quotation. However, there will probably have to be more truth in the insinuation when Ted goes over to Meds. next year.

J. MURRAY GORDON

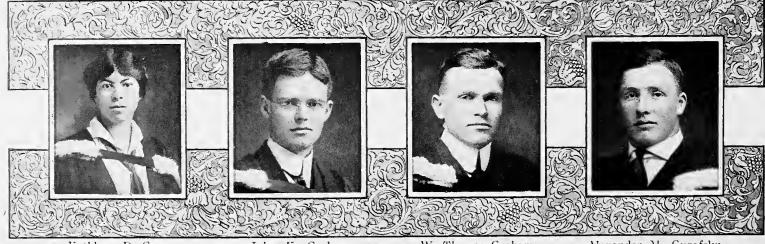

"The law his aim, the Beuch his goal."

"Joe" was born in Toronto in 1895, A.D. After a preliminary education at Harbord Collegiate he entered Varsity with the usual high-flown ambitions of a freshman. Throughout his course he took an interest in the various college activities, notably the "Lit." and the inter-year debates. The obscure depths of legal points will be his next sphere of endeavor. of endeavor.

M. MEYER GORDON

"Merit was ever modest known."

Was born in Toronto in 1896, and prepared his way to Varsity by matriculating from Oakwood Collegiate. Industry and amiability are the leading traits of his character. His aspirations are legion, but he will probably be seen seeking further enlightenment in the sombre halls of Osgoode.

KATHLEEN D. GOWER

"The shortest answer is doing."

After many wanderings, Kathleen returned to her native Toronto and entered College. After the first year she thought of retiring from her course but was urged to finish. The Anglican Club has profited by her presidency.

JOHN K. GRAHAM

"A man he was of cheerful yesterdays and confident to-morrows,"

Birthplace, Toronto. Home-town, Hamilton. Recreation, inventions. Course, Philosophy. Pursuit, wisdom. Amusement, "cousin." Pasttime, lectures. Destiny, Knox. Paradise, sleeps and eats.

W. THOMAS GRAHAM

"Ashamed of his knowledge, and proud of his ignorance, he hasn't much to be proud of."

In application to Chemistry, as constant as the R in pv=nRT; he has nevertheless taken a constructive interest in all healthy student activities.

ALEXANDER M. GUROFSKY

"Even though vanquished he could argue still."

The Northeliffe of the "Lit." Born in Toronto and a graduate of Jarvis Collegiate. He entered Varsity with the motto, never do to-day what can be put off till tomorrow, but he latterly has developed into a real plugger. We predict for "Red" a high standing in the legal profession.

Future—You never can tell.

MARJORIE S. HALL

"With gentle, yet prevailing force, Intent upon her destined course."

After attending Harbord Collegiate Institute, Marjorie entered Varsity with the Class of 1T6. High honors in Moderns, social activities and the presidency of the Modern Language Club have been part of her course.

MURIEL E. HALL

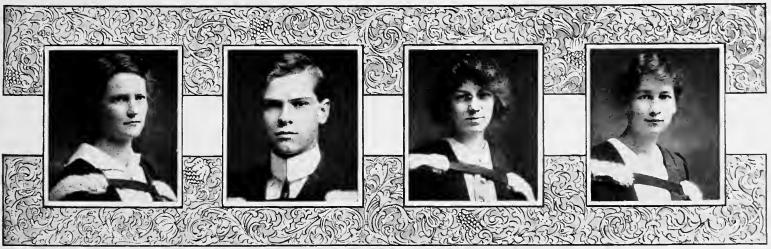

"Judge me by what I am.
So shalt thou find me fairest."

Muriel, born and brought up in Toronto. Finished her preparatory education at Humberside Collegiate. From here she came to Varsity, where her only thorn was Geometry. It is rumored that she will follow the legal profession.

ROBERT C. HALL

"From the great desert to the west of us."-Prof. Coleman.

Origin—Portage La Prairie, August 29th, 1893. Insertion—P. & B. 1T6. Action—Graduated from Calgary C. I. and Alberta Normal School in 1911. "Bob's" bright western spirit has won him many friends. Member of Executive 1915.

W. HENRY HARRISON

"A mathematician—with a physical instinct."

Born at Burlington, Ont. Matriculated from Oshawa High School, 1911, with First Class Standing, which he maintained throughout his course. He was an active member of the Executive of the M. and P. Society.

IDA M. HARVIE

"If 'twere not for my cat I think I could not live."

Ida hails from Jarvis Collegiate and entered the Modern Language Course of University College, where her constant cheerfulness has been the boon of her many companions. French conversation classes, Anglo-Saxon grammar and cats are her favorite hobbies.

MARGARET HATFIELD

Ac smile o' her would banish care."

After graduating with honors from Evanston Academy, Margaret spent three years at Northwestern University, Evanston. Attracted by our Household Science Course, she came to Toronto to take her degree.

"Unbounded courage and compassion joined, Tempting each other in the victor's mind, Alternately proclaim him good and great And make the hero and the man complete."

Irving Hearst is one of a number of students from this year's graduating class who decided to don the khaki early in the year. At time of writing he was a lieutenant in a local battalion at Exhibition Park. He has the best wishes of his class.

JOSEPH HILLEY

"He is a man of many parts."

Apart from study, apart from jesting, apart from sociability, apart from rugby, he is the equal of any man. He could study and keep it moderately secret. He could be your best friend without reminding you of it. What better could be said about any man?

WILLIAM M. HUGILL

"Living a life of eager industry."

Will came to life some 21 years ago. Harbord C. I. was his stepping stone to Classics at Varsity. His greatest asset is a knowledge of what he wants and how to get it. His aim is single and as a friend he can't be beaten. Will's fate—"Success."

ROBERT F. INCH

"Even though vanquished, he could argue still."

"Bob" made his initial appearance at Hamilton. One morning, early in October, 1912, he stepped off the milk train from there and since then his principal diversions have been fussing, arguing and basketball. At the beginning of his last year he received an appointment with the 86th Battalion, Machine Gun Section.

H. John C. Ireton

Thomas H. Jameson

Joan Keeler

M. Hildred Kemerer

H. JOHN C. IRETON

"Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more, Men were deceivers ever."

Drummond, Ont., had a double celebration on May 24. After attending Perth C. I., he entered Varsity with M. & P., '16. To more assiduously study the caprices of Venus, he took astronomy in his senior year.

THOMAS H. JAMESON

"Books-a dull and tedious strife."

"Harry" is not lazy. The quotation implies that his eleverness makes extensive research unnecessary. He "blew in" from the West with a spirit of optimism which has won for him a host of friends, mostly ladies. "He'll be a lawyer if he can, and he can." Already success attends him.

JOAN KEELER

"The kindest friend,
The best conditioned and unwearied spirit
In doing courtesies."

Joan's continued deeds of kindness and sunny disposition have won for her numerous admiring friends. Her humor is an encouraging influence among those who know her best.

M. HILDRED KEMERER

"All roods are equally good if only they bear towards the same goal."

Hildred spent the first years of her college course at the University of Michigan and Sweet Briar, coming to Toronto in her junior year. Secretary-treasurer of the International Polity Club.

ARTHUR W. KENNEDY

"The gods will think twice before — a gentleman of his quality."

He is neither a seer nor a saint. It is not the human intellect that interests him but the human heart and the great comedy of life.

VELMA E. KENNEDY

"True of heart, of spirit gay."

After Honor Matriculation, small Velma joined the illustrious freshies of 1T6. Her unfailing good nature and hearty laugh have made her a favorite with her class-mates. Serving on Class, Athletic and Torontonensis Executives.

JAMES KINGSBURGH

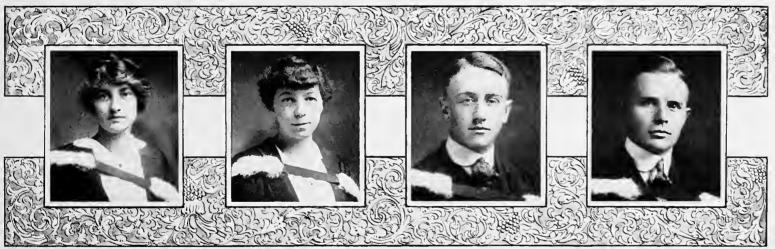

"Take advice of a red-headed man and begone."

Jim first began this existence at Ayr, Ont., Jan. 14, 1894. Moved to Paris 1905 and matriculated there 1911. To Toronto 1913. Entered Varsity 1912. Has taken an active interest in college affairs. Served on Lit. and Y.M.C.A. Executives in final year.

HERBERT C. KINNEE

"He'll make a stir, Like a great astronomer."

Appeared on this planet near Hamilton in 1889. Matriculated at Richmond Hill, and taught for four years. Ambition called and Clarence joined the '16 M. & P. Class. His many friends predict for him a successful career.

Frederick A. Logan

FLORENCE I. KNIGHT

"I do not trouble my spirit to vindicate itself."

Born at Mandaumin, graduated from Seaforth Collegiate Institute; came to Toronto and was initiated into Queen's Hall in 1912. Is a member of the Y. W. Cabinet and will graduate in Moderns.

MURIEL LEE

"Her stature tall, I hate a dumpy woman."

Muriel's home is Hamilton, her course Moderns. Her interests are numerous and vary from Higher Criticism to Parisian Gowns. She is diplomatic, versatile, artistic, "Mistress of herself tho' China fall."

ALLEN L. LEWIS

"No man becomes a villain all at once."

Came to Varsity from New Westminster, B.C., with one idea, viz., to overlook nothing. Still has that one idea. Result—success in studies; his "T" in athletics; many conquests of a non-academic nature.

FREDERICK A. LOGAN

Will cast the spear and leave the rest to Jove."

First stepped before the footlights at Niagara Falls, Ontario, Aug. 27, 1894. Stage name "John." Good-natured, hospitable. The personification of complacence and non-chalance. An indispensable member of P. & B. 1T6.

The Literary Society

HE war has affected all University activities, but probably none more than those of the "Lit." Many of those upon whom the duties of office would have fallen had enlisted, and four who accepted office answered the call during the year. Even though the past year has been one for action rather than talking, it was necessary that the "Lit." should not be allowed to die. Therefore, at the commencement of the term a coalition executive was unanimously chosen to conduct the affairs of the "Lit" for the ensuing year.

The majority of the usual social functions had to be cancelled. Neither the Arts' Dance, Dinner nor Stag Night were held, but Mock Parliament was held as in previous years. Despite the difficulties with which the committee in charge had to contend, it was a decided success. The programme was divided into two parts, a peace conference and a skit entitled "Satan The peace conference provided ample opportunity for paying off old scores against both students and faculty, while in the musical comedy the men showed how a real chorus should sing and dance. Last year the men held a joint meeting of the women's and men's societies. Following our lead of last year the women took advantage of 1916 by holding a Leap Year Meeting to which the men were asked. This was the only social event of the year conducted by the "Lit," and it was entirely successful, bidding fair to become in the future one of the established "Lit." functions. The ladies presented a play; the men gave an impromptu debate, and several musical numbers were also rendered.

The regular meetings could have been more appropriately termed irregular, for with party questions banished it was hard to interest the students. Only four business meetings were held during the year. The opening meeting in West Hall was addressed by Mr. Frank Yeigh. His subject was, "The Span of a Generation: Canada, Yesterday, To-day and To-morrow." Believing it to be the wish of some of the students to form a "Battery of Artillery" the "Lit." undertook to discover the general feeling on the subject. On January 21st a mass meeting was held, at which there was a large attendance, all faculties of the University being represented. President Falconer and Capt. Wallace addressed the meeting, and the former suggested the forming of "University Training Battalion, instead of an artillery unit. No definite conclusion was reached, so the "Lit." having done its duty in bringing the agitation to a head, left the matter in the hands of the Students' Council for further action. Budget night, the time when the executive must account for its sins of omission and commission, is usually an evening when party strife and vituperation reign supreme. This year, however, all was changed and the budget was meekly accepted without a stir.

And now the men of 1T6, having played their part in "Lit." activities for four years, must pass off the stage, and leave its future in other hands.

Mock Parliament

N Friday, Nov. 26, Convocation Hall was besieged by a mob of seething humanity, assembled for the purpose of beholding the annual Mock Parliament. All the cultured and intellectual citizens of Toronto were there, and many of the Arts staff, too. The fair damsels of Queen's Hall were out in full force; S.P.S., Vic., Dents., Meds. and Forestry also sent a more or less full delegation. For weeks a vigorous advertising campaign had kept the public on the qui vive with promises of something new, original and striking, and on the big night they came in thousands.

Once inside, the "Blast," the slides and the fusser-finder passed the time agreeably until, promptly at 8.15, only a quarter of an hour late, Want Everything Smith, F.O.R.D., rolled up the aisle in his 1916 model Juggernaut, and opened the International Peace Congress. Delegates were present from nearly every civilized country in the globe, with representatives of the "yellow" race predominating. The Kaiser and Von Turnips were escorted in by two husky cops, and proved as unmanageable shackled as they were when loose. The speech from the throne was a clever bit of purely classical Latin; it was utterly unintelligible to the audience, and was received with great applause. It was decided to empanel a jury from the audience to try the prisoners, but great difficulty was found in doing so, as all the gentlemen hauled up to the platform by the vigilant cops were discovered to possess very serious defects of character. Some of the members were very undignified at times, and the prisoners were always in keeping. As for the individual portrayals, Hebrew Alt, as the member for Russia, was particularly good; he displayed a fine line of gibberish, that reminded one forcibly of his distinguished prototype. Mrs. Galt was universally acknowledged to be some queen, and Acrobatic Prohibitionist Wilson was admirably eccentric and profane.

After the Peace Council, with fitting ceremony, broke up and left the stage, the Satanic Some-funny Orchestra, to avoid giving the victims any chance to escape, immediately struck up and bridged the hiatus until the event of the evening, Satan Agonistes, a musical agony in three acts, perpetrated by R. D. Tannahill, G. C. Haddow and T. H. Jameson. This diabolic masterpiece started off with a rush and a swing, and ended with a whizz and a bang. The plot was absolutely indescribable. The first scene was laid in the lower regions, and was a great success, as the chorus was entirely at home, and the orchestra quite in harmony. Without any respite the audience was launched into the worst throes of the agony. Some fine mimetic art was here displayed by the languid Moreece and the harsh and villainous Reggie Starr. Les Batten, in the part of Percy Tolcum Nearkist, a sentimental undergraduate, made a great hit. George Haddow was certainly stunning as the graceful, graceless Peruna Alcohol, who turned the University upside down. The male chorus was good, and the females were very fair. The orchestra plugged up all the gaps nicely, and when they weren't killing the time, the spotlight was busy showing up prominent personages in the house. But enough of the horrible details; suffice it to say that the audience, in spite of the imminent danger of their morality being corrupted, stayed to the bitter end, and that the unprecedented sum of $270 was realized by the committee for the Red Cross, after all expenses were paid.

The Recessional

A Victorian Ode

God of our fathers, known of old—
Lord of our far-flung battle line—
Beneath whose awful hand we hold
Dominion over palm and pine—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

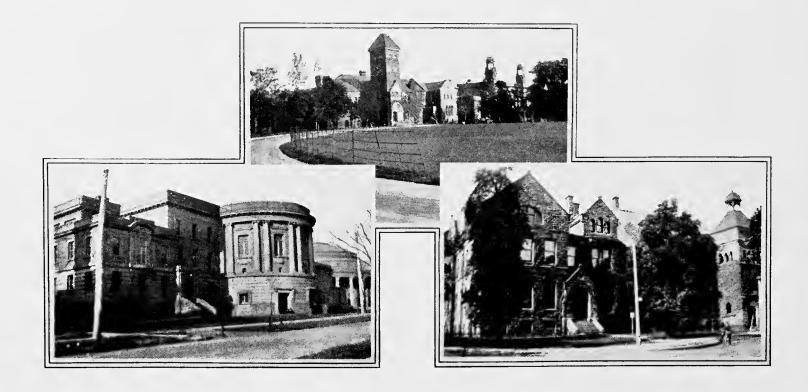

The tumult and the shouting dies—
The Captains and the Kings depart—
Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart.
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

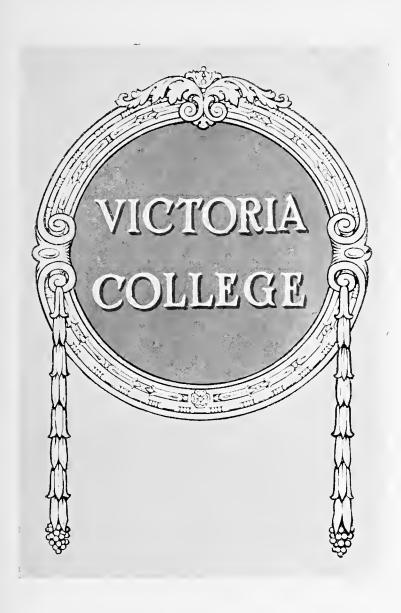

Far-called, our navies melt away—
On dune and headland sinks the fire—
Lo, all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Ninevel and Tyre!
Judge of the Nations, spare us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

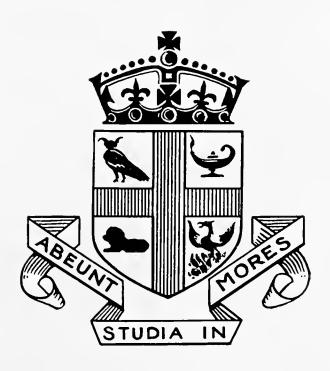

If, drunk with sight of power, we loose
Wild tongues that have not Thee in awe—
Such boasting as the Gentiles use,
Or lesser breeds without the Law—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

For heathen heart that puts her trust
In reeking tube and iron shard—
All valiant dust that builds on dust,
And guarding calls not Thee to guard—
For frantic boast and foolish word,
Thy Mercy on Thy People, Lord!

Amen.

J. Reginald Adams

Harworth Atkinson

Frederic J. Bell

Elvie L. Bishop

J. REGINALD ADAMS

"A man not of words, but of actions."

Reg. was born in the parsonage at Toronto on a June day in 1896. Became an itinerant Westerner, journeying to Victoria, Port Arthur and Winnipeg, graduating from there in '12. His academic course has been as consistent as his athletic career, and his fourth year finds him winning the college tennis tournament, playing on the interfaculty bockey and rugby teams, and carrying the senior stick. Political Science is his course and Osgoode his goal.

HARWORTH ATKINSON

"To know him is to respect him."

Atkie, proudly acclaimed son by Caledonia, has sojourned at Vic. en route to Osgoode. Freshman for three months, he became a fresh-soph in 1T6, Political Science. He has served on class executives, is a clever student, a mighty good head, but no fusser.

FREDERIC J. BELL

"There is so much good in the worst of us,"
And so much bad in the best of us."

Arnprior was immortalized in 1894 when Fred. first expanded his lusty little lungs. Destiny had him enter B. & P. in 1912, and now Fred. hopes to graduate with Meds. '19.

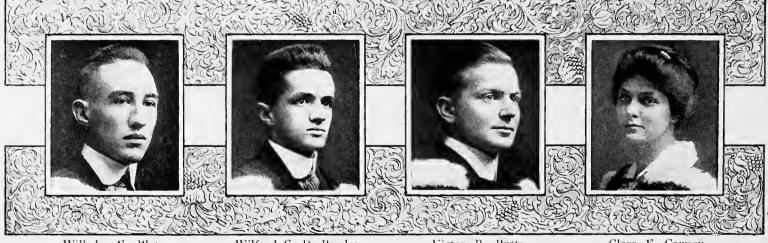

ELVIE L. BISHOP

"A place for everything, and everything in its place."

Centres of interest-The Physics Building and Annesley

Lines of activity—From the study of spectra to the concoction of cocoa,

Spheres of influence—Basketball, student government and experiment.

Wilhelm E. Blatz

Wilfred G. D. Bowles

Victor R. Butts

Clara E. Cawsey

WILHELM E. BLATZ

"Good at a fight, but better at a play."

On June 30, 1895, "Bill" was first introduced to a circle of friends which has been steadily extending ever since. Scholastic, athletic and social distinctions have failed to weaken this stronghold of modesty. P. & B.

WILFRED G. D. BOWLES

"Night after night
He sat, and bleared his eyes with books."

Born 1895, Toronto. Early education in Winnipeg and Toronto. At Victoria, became noted for his unerring judgment when lecture-room or athletic field called him. Captain Victoria Rueby Team, 1915. Law will probably claim him after the war.

VICTOR R. BUTTS

"Every inch a king."

"Vic" was born Nov. 27, 1891, at Lowville. After obtaining senior matriculation at Albert College he came to Victoria, where his sunny disposition and musical talents hall be long remembered. He goes out to his chosen field with best wishes from his wide circle of friends.

CLARA E. CAWSEY

"Clarissima."

Act I.—Scene—Stratford, Ont, Clara acquires the three R's in the Classic City.
Act II.—Scene—Victoria. Clara enters Moderns, for a change. (Interval employed in fussing, skating, knitting. and a little study.)
Act. III.—Scene—The Great Unknown. Enter Clara.

Edward F. Church

Willmott D. Clark

Mary E. Clerke

Lucy Clare Colbeck

EDWARD F. CHURCH

"Once more, will you be my wife?" "Never!"
"Then into the river you go!!" (Sque-c-e-ak!!!).

Not the way Ned became a benedict, but a favorite bit of the "horrid tragic," inimitably declaimed. It is his philosophy of life—brave choice. Victoria knows him in many roles—entertainer, "Acta" editor, preacher. At writing, he has volunteered as overseas chaplain. Fearless, sagacious, genial, sympathetic, big-hearted, he will be used and loved wherever he goes. Good luck and Godspeed!

WILLMOTT D. CLARK

"That ever with a frolic welcome took The thunder and the sunshine."

Willmott first smiled in the parsonage at Milton. Consuming ambition to become a sky pilot turned his face toward "the old Ontario strand." Many friends predict his

MARY E. CLERKE

"Slumber is more sweet than toil."

But in her waking moments Mary occupied her time in heading the Household Science and boosting the basketball team, first as its captain and in her final year as president of Athletics.

LUCY CLARE COLBECK

"When she is by we leave our work, We love her so sincerely."

From West Toronto Lucy came to Vic. in 1912. sunny hair and sunnier smile won for her many good friends and she "in pleasing others herself has learned to please."

Wilfred L. Cullis

Percy Daniels

William G. Day

MARIE CROWE

"Woman is a miracle of divine contradictions."

Fired with the ambition to learn yells other than O.A.C.'s, Marie came to Victoria, taking General Course as a side issue. Her enthusiasm for college activities and her championship of the "under-dog" has won her many friends.

WILFRED L. CULLIS

"Salut, Wilfred, et Bienvenu Your heart, 'es warm and kin' and true."

Born at Vandeleur, Grey County. Attended Meaford High School. Sky pilot in Timiskaming. Prominent in Debating Club, Lit., Liberal Club, and Glee Club. Favorite study—Politics. Recreation—Strumming a guitar.

PERCY DANIELS

"And still the wonder grew That one small head could carry all he knew."

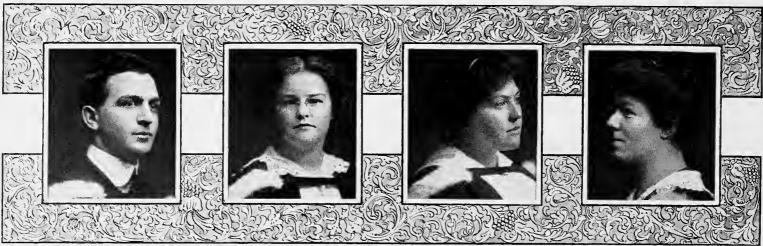

"Dan" spent his early life in Toronto and then went to Albert College for Senior Matriculation. Semitics then attracted him at Vic. and the Oriental Club claimed him for president in his final year. Played first clarinet in C. O. T. C. band. His favorite song—"Just a wearying for you."

WILLIAM G. DAY WILLIAM G. DAY

"Man's noblest gift to man is his sincerity."

This world the richer, August 2, 1887, at Old Pelican, Newfoundland. Early education Public School and Methodist College, St. John's. Graduated from Toronto in Semitics, 1916. A solid student with broad interests and highest achievements. A friend never failing. Full of life and dead languages.

John F. Docherty

E. Alice Fenwick

JOHN F. DOCHERTY

"Faults he has, but hast thou not thine?" "Doc" first cried in Griswold, Man., in 1893. The fates ordained however that Seaforth, Ont., should suffer the responsibility of his education till 1912, when he matriculated with the Carter Scholarship. The P. & B. Course has claimed most of his attention at Vic., but the "stiffs" have had a few days off to give "Doc" an opportunity to win his "V" in soccer.

in soccer.

E. ALICE FENWICK

"Good things are done up in small parcels."

Alice came from St. John's, Newfoundland. She had given to her, by the sea, a sunny smile and a rippling laugh; by her homeland, ability to reason, remember and serve, coupled with a modest desire to be behind the scenes; by her college, just enough self-confidence to serve on the

Ethel B. Finch

Stella T. Fleming

ETHEL B. FINCH

"'Twas her thinking of others Made you think of her."

Ethel came from St. Mary's, with an Edward Blake Scholarship, and a happy Irish smile. Thus she was well fitted to maintain a high standing in Moderns and assist on Y. W. and Class Executives. Her enthusiasm, generosity, and kindness have endeared her to her fellow students.

STELLA T. FLEMING

"If the virtues were pocked in a parcel Her worth might be sample for a'."

A true Torontonian—for whom Victoria is indebted to Branksome Hall. Add to sympathetic sincerity, practicality, and firmness of purpose, a little Irish humor, and no one will wonder at her host of friends.

Leslie H. Floyd

LESLIE H. FLOYD

"For he bescemeth well of person and of countenance that he shall prove a good man."

Leslie II., one of the highly cultivated citizens of Toronto, attended Jarvis St. Collegiate, and despite exceeding great obstacles, has now passed in English and History (Mods.). He has imagination, ideas, and the magic touch with words, for which Canadian magazines have thanked him. If his ambitions hatch we shall hear of him again. Good fortune, Less!

AGNES GAIRDNER

AGNES GAIRDNER

"Sought to climb Parnassus
By dint o' Greek."

A Toronto girl, Agnes came from Jarvis Collegiate to Victoria, where she bravely chose that lonely way, the Classics Course. Her classmates have found her "a good companion and as firm a friend."

E. Rowena Going

S. Herbert Greenslade

E. ROWENA GOING

"I am thankful that my name is obnoxious to no pun."

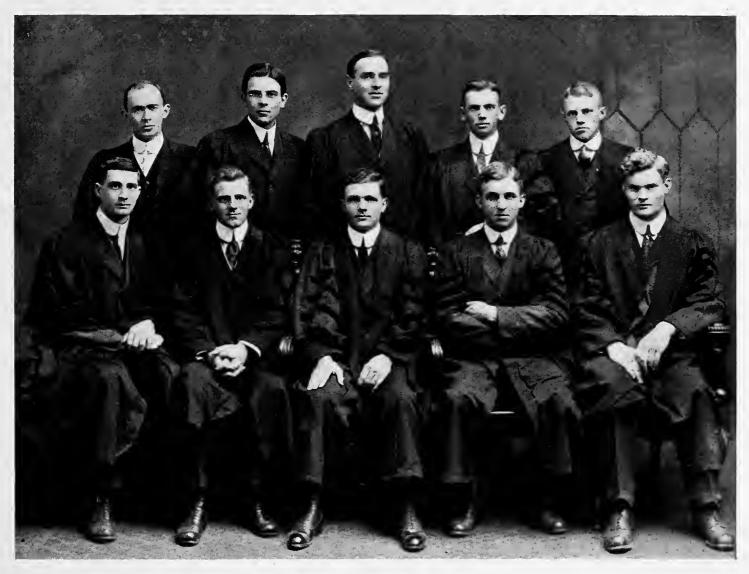

"A rolling stone gathers no moss," yet Erie in her wanderings accumulated sufficient knowledge to enter college. Her practical nature at once asserted itself in labs. and demonstrations, but with the winter she had to give them up, as the call of the rink was too strong for her.

S. HERBERT GLEENSLADE

"A noble man among men."

Born in Wales. Orangeville Collegiate '09. Northern Mission Fields '11, '12. Victoria '12. President of Class '13. Y. M. C. A. Executive '14. "Lit" Executive '15. President of Students' Council '16. Associate pastor of down town church '14.'16 church '14-'16.

"A place in the world awaits you.
Each man has some part to play."

BOTTOM ROW-A. Lacey, 3rd Year Rep.; J. W. Oliver, C.T., Treasurer; S. H. Greenslade, '16, President; D. A. Lane. '17, Secretary; S. M. Sweetman, 1st Year Rep.

E. Alberta Hastie

E. Irene Henderson

LYLA M. GUEST

"Silence in woman is like speech in man."

Matriculating from Kemptville High School, Lyla entered Ringlish and History (Classics). She was always an interested member of Lit. In her final year a representative on Student Government and Classical Association.

DOUGLAS K. HAMILTON

"And many a lecture he attended, Or went not as he chose.'

Born at the Parsonage, Port Stanley, April 15th, 1893. As a minister's son he was a bird of passage and had many homes. Bob Committee 1913. Executive three times. An industrious student, a very choice friend and a fusser o' pairts.

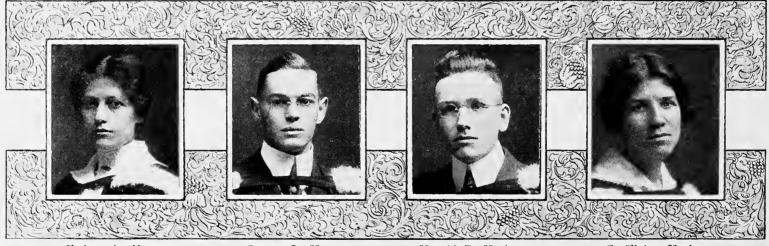

E. ALBERTA HASTIE "My name is Fun."

With her little pen and notebook, From Sheguiandah, Manitoulin, Came this sunny Northern maiden To Victoria's halls of learning. Hockey, basketball, debating, These the tasks she did pursue; Whilst for needed recreation, There were lectures—just a few.

E. IRENE HENDERSON

"Oh sir, she smiled, no doubt, whene'er I passed her."

A graduate of Moulton College, honor matriculant of Jarvis Collegiate, Irene entered the Household Science Course. Though a busy maiden, she now is successfully managing Y. W. C. A. finances. For frankness, optimism, and a merry laugh, she is much liked by all.

Esther A. Henry

Lorne J. Henry

Harold P. Herington

C. Elgiva Hockey

ESTHER A. HENRY

"There's nothing too good for the Irish."

Natural Habitat—Barrie.
Favorite Resort—"Little Vic."
Sidelines—Latin Prose, English Essavs. Fudge.
Hobby—Y. W.
Aversions—Fussers.

Marked Characteristics—Irish wit, ability to take notes in the language of question marks and spaces.

LORNE J. HENRY

"To thine own self be true— Thon can'st not then be false to any man."

Entered at Kendal, Ont., in 1893. Educated at Port Hope. Played at "school-marm" for two years and is now heading for the ministry. He was always interested in missions and success is predicted for him in his chosen calling.

HAROLD P. HERINGTON

"Companions, vile companions, have been the spoil of me."

Harold brought his winsome smile of youthful innocence from Jarvis C. I. Played politics in Democratic Ministry. Wrote, refitted and renewed locals for "Acta." Displayed a keenness for figures (numerical). Hence his assured success as an actuary or in realms of higher finance.

C. ELGIVA HOCKEY

"So sweetly virtuous and pure, And yet a little pert be sure."

Joy reigned in the Methodist Parsonage when a sober, saucy, thoughtful, gay Elgiva came to stay. A true friend, a jolly comrade, and fond of sport, she found outlets for her energy in dramatics, "Acta" locals, Y. W., and finally in the leadership of the Government at Lit.

A. Milton Horner

Hazel J. Hubbell

Wesley A. Hunnisett

A. MILTON HORNER

Born 1893, Shawville, P.Q. Later entered Jarvis Collegiate, where he achieved matriculation. Entered Victoria and became more or less interested in physical sciences. The Lit., C. O. T. C., and athletics. Captain Sifton Cup Basketball Team 1914-15. Rugby intercollegiate champions 1914. Argonauts 1915. President Victoria Athletic Union.

HAZEL J. HUBBELL

"For one may smile and smile, and be a villain."

At college, a devotee of Household Science. Add to a sunny disposition, a measure of caprice, any amount of curly red hair ,a dash of freckles and fun, a pinch of spice, and there you have Hazel.

WESLEY A. HUNNISETT

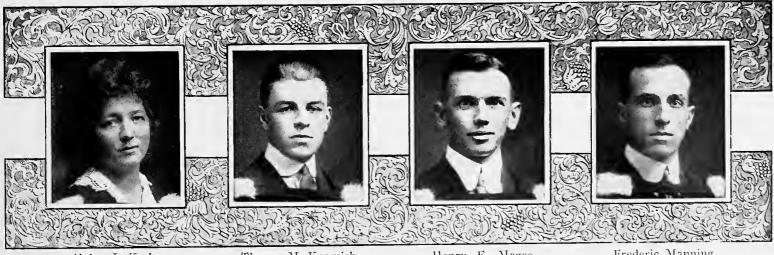

"Sober he seemed and very sagely sad."

May 26, 1894, is his birthday. Old Toronto his only home. Matriculated Parkdale Collegiate '10. Abroad '11. Victoria '12. His best work was done not in the college but in the big city outside, in social service and Italian Mission work.

W. CROSSEN JAMES

"Much study is a weariness of the flesh."

"Bill" found a few odd moments apart from his other activities to carry along General Course. Quiet and unassuming he was withal popular. His principal vices: asking questions and wearing a pipe. "On active service.

Helen J. Kerby

Thomas M. Kerruish

Henry E. Magee

Frederic Manning

HELEN J. KERBY

"Gregory, remember thy smashing blow!" Helen, in tennis victorious,
Entered Vic., not yet so notorious.
Late of Calgary rocky,
Ensnared into hockey,
Ne'er dreaming professors censorious.
Knits also, as all maids dutious,
Envied much for cooking arts beauteous,
Repents of her errors,
Before exam. terrors,
Yields pleasure to honors illustrious.

THOMAS M. KERRUISH

"Of manners gentle, of affections mild,
In wit a man . . . "

A healthy interest in every sport, combined with such academic achievements as the Bankers' Scholarship and membership in the Historical Club, has made Max's four years at Varsity a success.

HENRY E. MAGEE

"A heart to resolve, a head to contrive, and a hand to execute."

Born in Wright County, Quebec. Took preparatory work at Albert College. Preached two years in Alberta. Entered Victoria with '16. The various offices he has filled bespeak the confidence placed in him by the students.

FREDERIC MANNING

"He was a man, take him for all in all."

Born in Listowel, Ont. Spent early life on a farma Wallace Lamb. Matric.—Listowel H. S. '06. Taught school '08, '09, '10. Pres. of Class, '13; Pres. of Vic. Y. M. C. A. '15-'16. Heading for ministry.

Class---1916---History

Rumble, bumble, hullabuloo, Whistle, thistle, hocus zoo, Maxi, caxi, six boom bah, V. C. Sixteen, Rah, Rah, Rah.

In the fall of 1912 the halls of Victoria were literally overrun with seekers after knowledge. Quality as well as quantity was there, and so it has been ever since. As soon as they had overcome their natural timidity and backwardness about coming forward, they were always in the forefront. The Class was soon organized, and then, who could withstand them? Certainly not the Sophs! Even though they did capture a number of the unsuspecting ones, the rest were more than sufficient to tie up a number of the Sophs, and sweep aside the ones who tried to oppose their triumphant march to the alleyboard.

The only other important event that fall was the "Bob." Here the Freshmen made a name for themselves by their singing. '16 showed themselves good sports by taking their "Bobbing" in true meekness and humility. The Class 1T6 could stand a good deal, but May and its trials proved too much for some of its number and only 120 survived the fray. Once more Sixteen put on the war paint and went on the warpath to capture the scalps of the Freshmen. On Saturday morning some twenty-five Freshmen were tied up in "coffins" and lined up against the alleyboard. Some of these were paraded around on an impromptu hearse, while funeral music was supplied by some of the members of 1T6. The remainder of the Year '17 failed to appear, so the scrap had to be postponed until Monday. When they did appear, they received a very warm

Sixteen, having been persecuted in the "Bob," the preceding year were now anxious to expose the sins of 1T7. Not content with merely finding fault, they procured a machine, which entirely regenerated the verdant Freshmen. This was the first year that the "Bob" was held in Burwash Hall. Not only was the "Bob" successful in its effect upon the Freshmen, but it was the greatest financial success that any "Bob" has been before or since. At the Freshmen reception '16 showed their ingenuity by masquerading as Red Cross nurses and soldiers in Queen's Own Rifles' uniforms. They also succeeded in making the reception interesting, by running opposition to the programme with hurdy-gurdy, gongs, and appropriate but mysterious organ recitals.

Not content with being studious and quiet Juniors, the year found an outlet for their energy in numerous social functions. Probably no year has ever surpassed the Class of 1T6 when they were Juniors in this respect. A corn roast at Fisherman's Island proved so delightful in its informality that the executive soon held another. As an attribute to the ingenuity of the Class, this form of social outing has almost become a tradition around Victoria. On Halloween the girls entertained the boys at Annesley Hall and this will long be remembered as one of the best times spent in the whole four years. The Class did not believe in being selfish with their talent, so in hayracks they repaired to Islington, where they exchanged an entertainment for a good "feed," and everyone was satisfied. Our fame spread and we were invited to Danforth to repeat the "performance." This time, sleighs proved the cosy means of conveyance. Soon after this the seriousness of the war and Canada's part in it was forcibly brought home to us by a number of our men enlisting. From this time on a great part of the men's time was occupied in drilling to fit themselves, if needed, to serve their country, and the girls were doing all they could to prove their loyalty.

When we returned to start our senior year. twenty-five of our men were on active service, while others were continually leaving to answer their country's call. As a result of this there were almost as many girls as boys in the senior year. Soon after College opened in the fall a corn roast was planned, but owing to a downfall of rain it was held in the College. Here a number of letters were written to the boys of the Class who were at the front. Each one present added a little message. It was during the fall term that some eighty-five noble Seniors presented themselves as innocent targets for the photographer, and it was brought home to each one that their College course was fast drawing to a close, and that they would soon be called upon to go forth and face the world.

The following is a list of 1T6 men on active service. Since this list was made out in December, and since different members were continually enlisting, it may be by the time that this is published there may be some whose names are not on it:

Erma McCullough

Beulah C. McDonald

HAZEL L. MARTIN

"The most reasonable woman has her hour in which to be unreusonable.

Blending a true appreciation of nature and Art with deep sympathy. Hazel entered the Modern History Course at Vic. She has crowned her academic work with the II. Massey Bursary and her willingness to serve in Class, Lit., Y. W., and Students' Council has been recognized by adding the presidency of Y. W. to her responsibilities.

SIDNEY MARTIN

"I've measured him from side to side— He's five feet long and one foot wide."

First natal cry, May 23rd, 1887, Stafford, Eng. Early education, Grammar School and Handsworth College. Came to Canada, 1911. Graduates in Orientals from Toronto University, 1916. Brilliant in studies, genial in companionship, and a good sport.

ERMA McCULLOUGH

"II'hy should life all labor be?"

"Yes, why?" asked Erma, after four years at Markham High School, so at "Vie." she chose the General Course, which has left her time to win many a well-contested game of tennis and many an admiring friend.

BEULAH C. MeDONALD

"The world belongs to the energetic."

With all the enthusiasm of the Western spirit, Beulah entered Moderns and other college activities, displaying unflagging zeal as president of Students' Council. Having failed to make an Easterner of her, we are sending her back, with best wishes for future suecess.

William M. MeDonald

Margaret McIntosh

Evelyn M. McLaughlin

W. Webster McLaughlin

WILLIAM M. MeDONALD

"Morning bright, with rosy light, hath waked me from my sleep."(?)

William was educated at Chesley H. S. Well done for C. H. S. He was so undecided as to whether he would become a missionary or a politician, that he chose the happy medium and took chemistry.

MARGARET MeINTOSH

"In all thy humors, whether grave or mellow,
Thou'rt such a touchy, testy, pleasant fellow,
Hast so much wit and mirth and spleen about thee
There is no living with thee, or without thee."
And this is "Marg." Chasing the puck, criticizing in Lit., and "Head-ing" the Hall.

EVELYN M. McLAUGHLIN

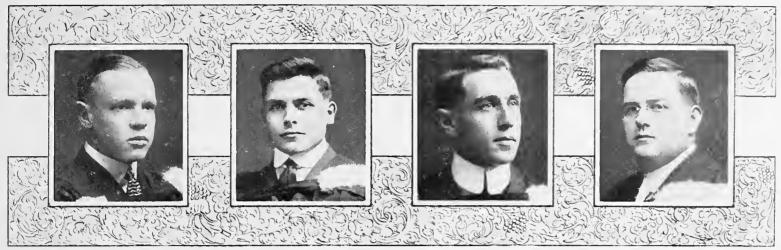

"If I chance to talk a little while, forgive me. I had it from my father."

Born at Oxford, England, in 1893, Evelyn has been surrounded by an atmosphere of wisdom from her infancy. Behold the result! President of Lit. in her IV. year. She rules, however, by her sweet personality rather than by her learning.

W. WEBSTER McLAUGHLIN
"These are the simple facts of the case and I guess I ought to know.'

Bill gave his first shout for Liberalism in 1894. Lindsay C. I. and Jarvis St. C. I. prepared him for the Class of '16. Society and societies claimed him first. Sometimes he played tennis, sometimes he ran for president and sometimes he studied.

Ernest C. McLean

Thomas C. McMullen

John E. Mitchell

ERNEST C. McLEAN

"Stop not at six feet six or so-aim higher, ever higher."

This eastern phenomenon appeared January, 1895. Unexplained until Spencerville's literary genius left its moorings and hovered with lesser spirits into "Vic." He always adds brightness to his environment. Amen—so let it be.

G. ADAMS McMULLEN

"Unpractised he to fawn or seek for power."

Mac first smiled in the parsonage at Romney, Ont., on Dec. 7, '95. Ambition turned his face toward the old Ontario strand with 1T6. His frankness, honesty and whole-hearted joviality have won a host of friends who enthusiastically wish him a brilliant career.

THOMAS C. McMULLEN

"Laboreth much, and but to sequester Benzoyl benzoic ester."

He isn't a Plato, nor a Newton, nor a Lloyd George, but he is Tom McMullen, and those of us who know him think he is all the better for it.

JOHN E. MITCHELL,

"A man he was to all the country dear."

"Mitch" first smiled on Elmdale Farm, Mt. Elgin, Ont., Sept. '13. Ingersoll C. I. to Vic, '16. His genial good-nature, pleasing personality, and executive ability won deserved honors as secretary of Vic. Students' Council 1914, and leader of Independent Government U. I., S. 1915. Success as a Christian minister.

Hazel J. G. Moffat

Robert C. Moffatt

E. Henry Moss

Bessie K. E. Mossop

HAZEL J. G. MOFFAT

"A penniless lass wi' a lang pedigree."

Household Science proved so attractive to Hazel that she had to desert Peterborough for Victoria. Her energy and ability found her a place on several executives, and the vice-presidency of her Class in the final year.

ROBERT C. MOFFATT

"Of Science and Nature he chatters As fine and as fast as he can."

Born near Ottawa in 1892, Crain completed his High School Course with Honors. Having taught a year he entered Victoria in the Physics Course, where his genial disposition has won him many friends.

E. HENRY MOSS

"Thou art fairer than the children of men,"

Middlesex, St. Mary's and Varsity have combined to give to the world a student of Biology, a soccer enthusiast and one who is every irch a man. In his quiet, unassuming nature his fellow-students have found a sincere friend.

BESSIE K. E. MOSSOP

"She's little but she's wise,
She's a terror for her size."

Born in Windsor, Ont. Elementary education in St.
Thomas and London. Honor matriculation from London
C. I. 1911, with First Edward Blake Scholarship in Science.
Vice-president Biological Club 1914-15. Honor Biology.

VICTORIA COLLEGE THIRD YEAR EXECUTIVE, 1915-16.

TOP ROW-R. W. Hardy, Historian; Geo. Howard, Secretary; Miss R. M. McLaughlin, Poetess; C. R. Nimmo, Poet; F. Hilliard, Pianist.

VICTORIA COLLEGE SECOND YEAR EXECUTIVE, 1915-16.

TOP ROW-R. Ryan, 2nd Vice-President; Miss L. Pearson, Pianist; J. V. Sparling, President; Miss H. Sparling, Treasurer; K. J. Shaver, Historian.

BOTTOM ROW-Miss J. Sackett, Lady Historian; M. R. Robinson, Poet; Miss A. Winter, 1st Vice-President; Prof. De Witt, Hon. President; J. W. Austin, Secretary; Miss B. I. Brown, Poetess.

Lina R. Moyer

Wendell M. Musgrove

James P. S. Nethercott

Anna M. Ochs

LINA R. MOYER

"The good stars met in your horoscope."

Born in St. Catharines 1893. Entered Victoria in Moderns. Mistress of the Patriotic Tea-Room in her senior year. Always in demand to "play the piano" (favorite song—"Red-llead"). Character—spontaneous, natural, with a sweet sincerity and a high ideal.

WENDELL M. MUSGROVE

"Books, 'tis a dull and endless strife."

Born 1896, Niagara Falls. Entered U. C. (C. & F.) 1912. Transferred to Victoria 1913. Add to above data a genial nature, a natural bent for athletics, politics and fussing and Wendell's popularity is explained. He has won his "V". Captain of the B. B. team and Class Historian.

JAMES P. S. NETHERCOTT

"I never felt the kiss of love Nor maiden's hand in mine."

"Jest and youthful jollity" will always attend "Nether." '16 was happy to call him its first president. Now he goes forth, a cultured English and History graduate, to bring joy to the waste-places of earth.

ANNA M. OCHS

"Care's an enemy to life."

When Anne came rushing into college life we all sat up and took notice. We have been doing so ever since. Ever interested in tennis, she soon became a hockey enthusiast, thereby winning her "T" and in her fourth year obtaining the captaincy.

Gordon P. Pook

David H. Porter

Clara L. Quance

Lorne II. Rehder

GORDON P. POOK

"Come what will I've sworn it still, I'll ne'er be melancholy."

Gordon has a merry disposition which wins him lasting friends. A native of Toronto and a graduate of Harbord, he has honored Victoria. Though his interests are many he is now noted as leader of the Classical Association.

DAVID II. PORTER

"A life that moves to gracious ends."

Born in Peterborough, Ont., and brought up in different places in North America, he finally settled in Toronto, where he matriculated from Parkdale Collegiate Institute in '10. The ministry called him in '11, and his gifts and graces are such as will do eredit to his calling.

CLARA 1. QUANCE

"God made her small in order to do
A more choice bit of workmanship."

Some coaxing and teasing, a little fussing and Clara left Hagersville. A hustle and bustle, with the patter of little feet, and Clara arrived at Victoria. Some studying, a little worrying, flurrying and scurrying and Clara graduated.

Behold her B.A.'d.

LORNE II. REHDER

"The things are few He would not do In friendship's name."

Born in 1893 in Paris, Ont., and existed there till Commerce and Finance called him to Vic. There he got mixed up with studies, the North House Gang, girls, baseball, tennis, and Class politics, in all of which he has been eminently successful. Finance, more or less high, will probably call him.

Bennet J. Roberts

Marvin L. Schultz

Norma W. Spencer

L. Marion Stapleford

BENNET J. ROBERTS

"How absolute the knave is!"

With a sigh of relief Twillingate, Newfoundland, saw him depart for Toronto, where he conducted the financial affairs of the city through the Financial Post until he began to stir things at Vic. as Class president and an ardent Democrat. He intends to be either Minister of Finance or Premier.

MARVIN L. SCHULTZ

"Noscitur ex sociis."

M. L. was born in Toronto in the early nineties. After graduating from Humberside Collegiate with his Honor Matric., he entered Victoria as a freshman in 1911, and chose Modern Languages as his course. Of athletics he has had his share, having obtained his "V" with the Track Club in 1915. Aloha Oe.

NORMA W. SPENCER

"Of thee I boast,
Great empire of the West."

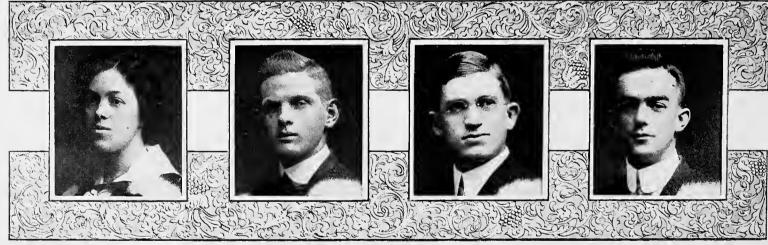

Coming from Vancouver, "Norm" enlisted in the "Household Science contingent." Though in a perpetual rush of committees, music, labs., receptions and skating, she still has strength enough left to gracefully swing the senior stick which her popularity won for her.

L. MARION STAPLEFORD

St. MARION STAPLEFORD

"She is not fair to outward show,
As many maidens be.
Her loveliness I never knew
Until she smiled on me."

St. Catharines Public School, Jarvis St. Coll., and the Household Science Course, all did their bit towards educating Marion. Success to her.

Aleta F. Still

Kenneth V. Stratton

Alfred L. Taylor

Lloyd C. Teskey

ALETA F. STILL

"Blessed with a temper whose unclouded ray Can make to-morrow cheerful as to-day.

Nothing daunted by the vicissitudes of school life in Port Perry and Jarvis Collegiate, Aleta came to run "the fearful gauntlet" at Victoria. Her cheerfulness, unassuming manner and thought for others have endeared her to college friends.

KENNETH V. STRATTON

"And many a lecture he attended or went not as he chose." Born May 3rd, 1896. Residence Committee and Secretary of North House. Burwash Hall in 1913. Class Poet 1914. You're nobody's friend if you're not Ken's.

ALFRED L. TAYLOR

"A curious child, with wondrous eyes."

Corporal "Fritz" arrived in Chatham on Dec. 9, '93. Attended the local collegiate, whence he matriculated, 1912, with two scholarships. An ardent English and History disciple, with distinct pedagogic proclivities. A great reader, a keen critic (apt to want his own way), and a warm friend. Vivat floreatque.

LLOYD C. TESKEY

"We know what we are,
But know not what we may be."

After matriculating from Jarvis Collegiate, Lloyd engaged in the banking profession for six years. Having placed the financial situation of Toronto on a sound basis, he entered C. and F. at Victoria College. He has finally reached his senior year, where he became secretary of his Class.

Ella M. Tuck

Kathleen E. Tucker

Elmer J. Walkom

William F. Ward

ELLA M. TUCK

"Oh, why should life all labor be!"

"Tuck," a jolly compound of work and play, not believing in hiding one's talents under a pile of books, entered whole-heartedly into athletics. Captain of the Basketball Team and an energetic worker in Lit. She has not lacked in college spirit.

KATHLEEN E. TUCKER

"The greatest happiness comes from the greatest activity." Matriculating from Jarvis Collegiate, Kathleen entered Victoria in Physiology and Household Science. In her second year she proved herself a capable Class vice-president, and has always been actively interested in the Literary Society, Y. W. and Social Service Department.

ELMER J. WALKOM

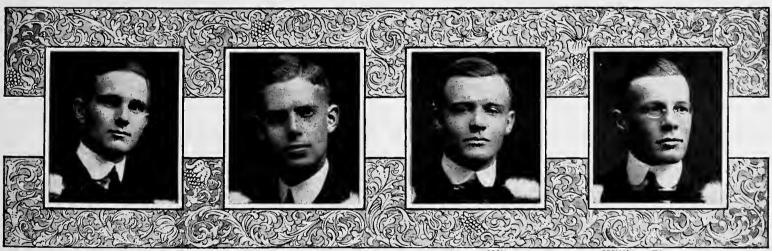

"A six-footer, but that's not all."

Elmer entered upon the stage of life—"All Saints' Day," '89. At Munro, Ont., he learned the song, "readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic." Albert College sent him to us. "Vic." knows him as an Oriental investigator, soccer enthusiast, and first-degree "fusser."

WILLIAM F. WARD

"No talent but yet a character."

Hailing from Middlesex, Will came to Victoria in 1911. Greek has been his chief scholastic foe. His favorite studies, History and freshettes. The Independent party found him a splendid whip. His future lies in law.

Clarence L. White

Arthur R. Willmott

David B. Wilson

William Zimmerman

CLARENCE L. WHITE

"I will buy with you, sell with you, talk with you, walk with you, and so following."

Lear came to Varsity to seek a business education in commerce and finance. He has shown his business ability as Business Manager of "Acta," and has had the honor of being president C. and F. Club. Lear also fusses a little.

ARTHUR R. WILLMOTT

"To live, and act and serve the future hour, Is the great privilege of earthly power."

Originally from Stouffville, of course (1894) via Sault Ste. Marie H. S. and Harbord Collegiate. Outlived the presidency of the Collegian Debating Club and the locals editorship of Acta. His tact and sincerity will carry him as successfully along life's journalistic path as over the rocky road of the editor-in-chiefship of the "Varsity."

DAVID B. WILSON

"Tis grievous parting with good company."

Bruce took his first soothing syrup in 1895 at Merrick-ville. Entered B. and P. in 1912, class see'y '14, councillor Biological Club '15 and '16, scientific editor of "Acta" '16. Scientific medicine will receive a progressive devotee in D. B. W.

WILLIAM ZIMMERMAN

"This was a man."

"Zimmie" got going in Hamilton in 1894 and has been going strong ever since. President "Bob" Committee 1913. Carried athletic stick 1915. Captain University Basketball Team 1915-16. On University Athletic Directorate and Historical Club. These are a few of his achievements.

VICTORIA COLLEGE ATHLETIC UNION EXECUTIVE, 1915-16.

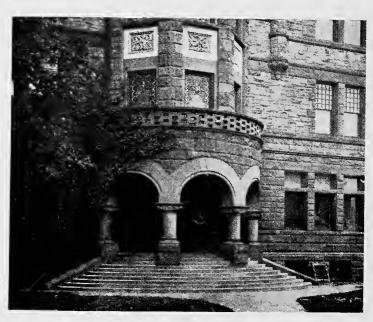

TOP ROW-V. W. Pearson, '19, 1st Year Rep.; F. J. T. Maines, B.A., B.D. Rep.; P. H. Gallaway, '18, Soecer Capt.; W. M. Musgrove, '16, Basketball Capt.; W. Zimmerman, '16, Athletic Stick.

BOTTOM ROW—C. B. Adams, '17, Secretary; A. M. Horner, '16, President; Prof. C. E. Auger, Hon. President; H. W. Timmins, '17, 1st Vice-President; J. R. Adams, '16, Treasurer; D. Maclean, '18, 2nd Vice-President.

Class---1916---History

Welcome, old friend! These many years Have we lived door by door: The Fates have laid aside their shears Perhaps for some few more.

HE gods chuckled with glee, the earth trembled, the still, small voice was silent, and the very elements themselves were for once confused when the year of all years, 1916, entered these antiquated portals and took possession of the pre-historic Jag in September, 1912. Why? Because they were fully aware that a new epoch in the civilization of man was come to pass. It seemed that the whole universe (and the Provost) had anticipated our coming with exceeding great joy, for they welcomed us with stretched-out arms (they always do). Job himself seemed to forget his affliction, and Methusaleh enjoyed his youth as before.

Jag House! What memories are attached to three, thou hot-bed of abominations! All the sojourners in the wilderness are gathered together unto thy bosom. For many years hast thou entertained the unsophisticated within thy rank and naked walls, and yet we love thee—we rejoice in thee as doth a grouchy benedict his mother-in-law.

The first period of our history dates back to 1912-13, a period of wars and amours. Many wild oats were sown, but few remained to reap the plentiful harvest (on account of exams.). It seemed as though the whole college rose up in arms against us that they might obliterate our existence, but fear was never to be found either in our categories or vocabularies (if such there be). In other words, we cared very little for what any body or bodies thought or did. We were independent and indispensable.

Our two ambitions in life are well worth noting, because they savor of an exalted, spiritual and intellectual type of entity—primarily, to demolish the remainder of the Jag (including the Dean), and ultimately to hold hands with the Saints (when possible). What nobler ambitions than these are to be found in any cultivated sect of society? Alas! for they were false illusions.

As Sophs. we accomplished wonders (?) in nearly every branch of University activities, but more especially in athletics. We had men on every first college team, and we captured the laurel wreath for that year. Apart from this, the "Worms" were subdued beyond the hope of a thought, but the imposition of a heavy fine soon taught us that our most beneficent tendencies were not regarded as such by the more simple. Hence the Frosh was left to consider his own destiny, while we fixed our attention on things above, and not on the earth below. This was perhaps our best year, both academically and otherwise, for in the next two years we were concerned more or less with military activities. As a result of the war we have lost the plupart of our numbers, but we rejoice to think that they have answered the call to arms. Howbeit, we have been replenished.

It is a sad sight—nay, a dismal spectacle—to see the deserted tables in the dining hall, the vacant seats in chapel (which was always customary), and the solitary few in the lecture rooms. But these things go hand in hand with war, and we must and have made the best of it.

A history of this year is impossible. I knew it was before I began the attempt, but something must be said on an occasion of this nature. Those who best know the members of the year (St. Hilda's, for instance) would be more able to give an adequate account of their virtues and shortcomings. Among their reflections they might possibly say that, firstly, the spirit of the year had always been athletic and not academic; secondly, that they were always refined (even to the point of vanishing altogether) by exams.; thirdly, that all the heads of the year went to the bow-wows; forthly, that they were always willing (as was Barkis) to raise a rumpus; and lastly, that they were all good heads.

And now the memories of the Jag fade away into oblivion—it is only for nuts now, and we never were—the various stages of our course are nearly completed, and we must bid farewell. Before the final curtain is drawn, however, we must pay immortal tribute to the Saints, for what could we have accomplished without them?

We both have run o'er half the space Listed for mortals' earthly race; We both have crossed life's fervid line, And other stars before us shine: May they be bright and prosperous As those that have been stars for us! (Exeunt omnes.)

THE CHAPEL

Class---1916---History

HE Class of Onety-Six has never been hampered in the even tenor of its progress by any precocious young geniuses. Like the Light Brigade, few of us entered the conflict and still fewer escaped unscathed, while most of the survivors were severely wounded by academic "stars" at various stages. To be precise, we are now one less than an even dozen. It will be a matter of heartiest mutual congratulations if all of us prove lucky in the "survival of the luckiest" in May, 1916.

Looking back over the past four years, we are all agreed that we have had a reasonably good time. A great deal of our energy has been devoted to athletics, "fussing," dancing, theatres and the other serious sides of College life. Occasionally we have found an odd half-hour to devote to Philosophy and military training. As the reader may judge, we go out to face the world in a rather contented frame of mind. None of us have any ambition of directing the political thought of the British Empire, though we haven't the slightest doubt that any one of us could do it well if Parliament were to insist.

What opinions of our ability are held by the faculty we are not prepared to state definitely. We have always found it extremely difficult to get the professors' point of view on most things, as our frequent constellations would seem to indicate. About the only consolation we have ever received from the teaching body was the assurance that there was always plenty of room for improvement. Of course, we hardly know whether to believe this or not, for we have noticed that "profs" occasionally speak largely for effect. However, it is our own private opinion that the faculty think we're not such a bad class after all. Really, we are very, very optimistic, vou notice.

This optimism of ours is largely the result of our College training. It was not always thus by any means. We are willing to admit that possibly four years ago we looked anything but optimistic. But no matter how green and sick we looked four years ago, we're prepared to swear that we only looked that way. You see, we're going on the assumption that College does not make optimists; it merely develops them—just like fools exactly. In a nutshell, our history simply constitutes a development of the optimistic idea.

What are we going to do? We all expect to go in for law. But this law business is a most comprehensive one; it has an ecclesiastical, military and civil side. We cannot possibly be more explicit for then we might get some of our members, who visit the fair sex, into trouble and, of course, this is not according to our ethical code at all, at all. We reckon that those interested will just have to remain attentive and watch the plot unravel itself. The only assurance that we can possibly give is that we reserve to ourselves the right of changing our minds. This may prove interesting to some of our admirers. However, no matter what we do or where we go, we shall go on in that same old optimistic spirit, each of us realizing that somewhere or other there are just ten classmates ready to help him out in times of difficulty.

To-day we are just an ordinary class graduating from little old St. Michael's, to-morrow—who knows?

The Medical Society

◀ HERE are two red letter days in the Faculty of Medicine—Election Day and Daffydil Night. The pulse and medical temperature gradually rises to a climax through the late fall and early winter until these dates are reached, when it slowly falls by lyses to normal, rising again at the approach of the final examinations.

The Medical Society was organized in 1895, primarily to foster anything and everything that would increase the comfort of the Varsity Medical student. The measure of its success can be gauged by the splendid co-operation of the faculty at all times since, and the increasing enthusiasm of the annual elections. A freshman does not realize what an important and intelligent man he is until the first three weeks in February, when he has the pleasure of meeting a number of good fellows whom the wintry breezes bring out, prodigal with handshakes, cigarettes and artistic blotters, modestly setting forth the merits of the candidate. Somehow he staggers dizzily through it, listening to innumerable speeches, blistering his alveoli with the tobacco smoke and finally puts his X after the name he wishes to honor with the highest honors in his college course.

To recount what has been accomplished in the past would take a chapter of its own, so to briefly outline what has been done this year is our purpose. The big question was the establishment of a Medical Journal and after a great deal of preliminary work a board was finally elected by the students and we trust they have initiated something by this time.

The usual comforts and luxuries have been added to the Society Rooms in the Medical Buildings, the most important being a lunch room for students who dine at the college. It was fitted with comfortable chairs, magazines, etc., and is proving a great convenience. Several rooms at this building and at the hospital have been made more enjoyable with various minor improvements.

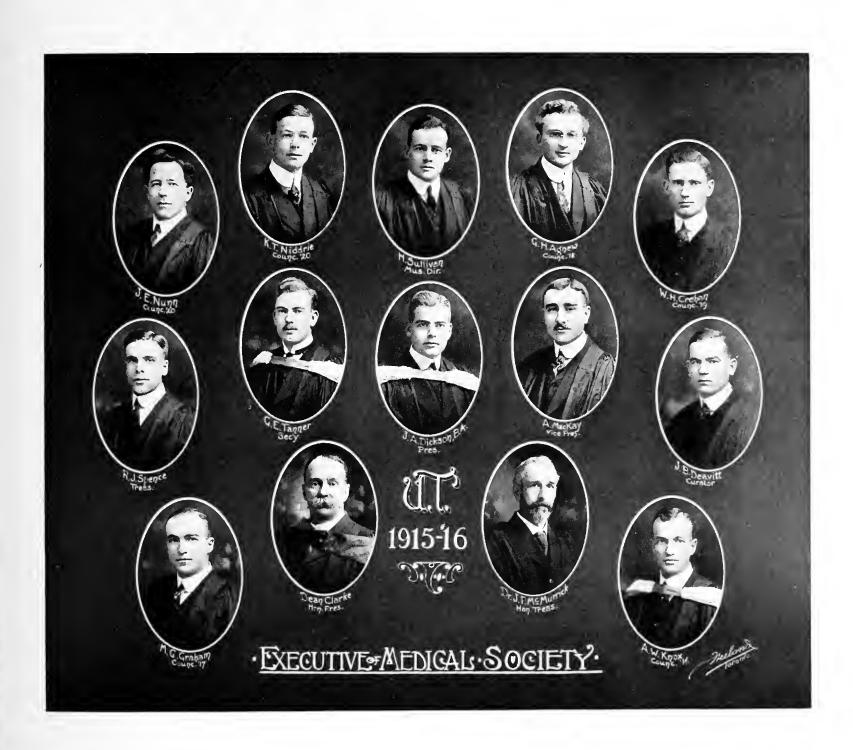

Daffydil Night has been kept up to traditional standards and was one of the most enjoyable events of the year. The Medical Orchestra and Chorus surpassed themselves and their numbers received rounds of applause. The inter-year act. "The Base Hospital at Salonika," reflected the martial spirit of the times and the effect of khaki on the familiar faces of the faculty was well portrayed. The Year "stunts" were replete with their usual vivacity and wit and the local sallies made by the "Lantern Fiend" made a great hit with everyone.

Once again was the Medical Faculty represented in the Inter-faculty Debating Union, but failed by a hotly contested debate to enter the semi-finals, being vanquished for these honors by Osgoode.

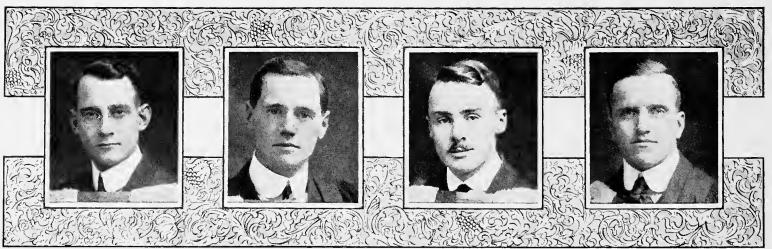

The annual Medical At-Home, held in December, was attended with the usual success. This year this function was made less elaborate in keeping with the circumstances prevailing throughout the University due to the war.

Among the speakers at the open meetings held for the literary and professional edification of the "Med," we might mention Dr. Bruce, Professor Powell, Prof. Bingham, Surgeon General Ryerson, Captain George, and several The chief feature has been the keen desire for medico-military topics, which is emphasized by the fact that from January 1, 1915, to January 1, 1916, over 170 medical students have enlisted for King and country, and undoubtedly this record will be broken next year.

The officers for 1915-16 were: President. James Dickson, B.A.; Vice-President, Angus MacKay; Secretary, Garnet E. Tanner; Treasurer, Roy J. Spence; Musical Director, Herbert Sullivan; Curator, J. B. Deavitt; and Councillors, A. W. Knox, M. G. Graham, J. H. Agnew, W. H. Crehan, J. E. Nunn, R. L. Niddrie.

Alec first made himself heard in the year 1894 at Claremont, He went to school and maticulated from there in due season, entering Medicine in 1911. He has made an annual practice of fooling the examiners and hopes to similarly deceive his patients. He possesses a fund of quiet humor which will materially assist his prescriptions.

Medical Book of Chronicles

CHAPTER I.

- 1. And it came to pass that they did assemble together even from afar off, Yukon, Newfoundland, Jamaica, Italy, Bulgaria and Hamilton, yea the uttermost parts of the earth.
- 2. And they did call themselves '16, for it was the year in which they would graduate.
- 3. And behold there came from the midst of them, a leader, and he was called "Hessian, Leader of the Herd." Hessian was a good shepherd and the sheep liked him and did follow him.
- 4. And Hessian said unto the herd, "Let us form a yell that we may know our call, lest the wolves come and devour us." And a yell was formed that all, hearing it, might believe that the Class was very great.
- 5. And there appeared from the wilderness an enemy: and they were called "Sophs." And Hessian said unto his people, "Let us gather together for they have wont to kill us."
- 6. And a day was set apart that all might gather together and witness the living sacrifice. And there was great commotion in the land for bloodshed was great.
- 7. But, behold, there came a man from the West and he was called Knox. And the enemy fled before him for he was great of stature, and the fragments thereof were many, even eighty basketsful.
- 8. Now it came to pass, as it was wont, that the Sophs were very angry among themselves and did swear vengeance on their enemies.
- 9. And election night was set apart, that all might come prepared to accomplish the aim.
- 10. But, behold, the plans were scattered abroad and the sheep did hear thereof and were prepared.
- 11. And Hessian said unto the herd: "Let us clothe ourselves in old garments and organize into groups that the fight may be strong and the Sophs will no longer inhabit the land which Pres. Falconer has given us."
- 12. And the sheep replied: "We will follow thee wheresoever thou goest." And the night came and all were prepared even to Hector.
- 13. But the Sophs, hearing of the numbers and strength of the sheep, did give way to fear

- and trembling lest they themselves should be rent asunder.
- 14. And it was well that it was so; for many of the sheep had taken their first smoke and the gastric eruptions were great.
- 15. So it came to pass that the night was spent in quietness, interrupted only at times by the more uncouth.
- 16. Now the sheep returned home and were quite satisfied: but the grass around the Medical Building soon became tiresome and they did seek for new pastures.
- 17. And Hessian said to the herd: "Let us wander to the S. P. S. that we may seek and devour." And a yell was raised that School, hearing it, might know that the flock were at hand.
- 18. But behold, when they were yet afar off, a cry of corrupt and vile language was heard and this, together with the H₂ S, caused the sheep to pass on, thanking the parents from which they came that their minds and bodies had been brought up in sunflower purity.
- 19. Now it came to pass, as time went on, that the Professors did seek the knowledge of the Class and exams, were set.
- 20. And great quietness prevailed in the land for the condition was grave: yea, even to Mike Brown, they did start to study.
- 21. And when the day had come, the examiners were amazed at the knowledge which they possessed.
- 22. And Prof. Ramsay Wright said unto his colleagues: "Let us pass them all, for like our forefathers, the reptiles, they must metamorphosize and appear in another class."

CHAPTER II.

- 1. And behold, there came an uproar in the land, for the sheep had become wolves and were roaming about seeking whom they might devour.
- 2. And it came to pass, as it was the custom in the land, that some Freshies had come to College and the wolves did spring for them for they were tender and of good eating.
- 3. And the leader of the wolves made ready for a great feast and lectures were set aside that all might enjoy thereof.

- 4. But when the appointed day had come, the wolves saw that the Freshies were not clean and so did prepare soft soap and gallons of water for them.
- 5. And the clothing was torn from them that the soap and water might reach to all the parts of their bodies.
- 6. Now, when all was ready, the wolves did sit them down to eat and the satisfaction was great.
- 7. But behold, there came into the midst of them an officer called "Christie," and he declared the feast a pass-over and all were made to flee from the grounds.
- 8. And the wolves were furious that they had been taken from their prey: and they betook themselves to the dissecting room that they might console themselves.

CHAPTER III.

- I. Now it came to pass that the Class of '16 did settle down to more quiet living after the two years of uproar.
- 2. And they said among themselves: "Let us cast aside our childish ways and become men of learning even as Prof. McPhedran would have us do.
- 3. So all became quiet save one, and his name was "Mack from up country." And this fellow did keep laughter in his midst, for he was of much humor.
- 4. And "Shorty Tomlinson," his pal, did urge him on for he loved to chuckle.
- 5. But behold, "Shorty" did fall by the wayside and take unto himself a wife, for he loved the girl, yea, even better than Mack.
- 6. Here a little, there a little, yea, Shorty did furnish his house well, for he had done what he could.
- 7. And it came to pass, as it was the custom, that a Daffydil Night was held, and the year did strive hard that they might win the cup.
- 8. And a eugenic wedding was put on that all, seeing it, might know and believe that the germs are a hindrance to a happy home.

9. And behold, the prize was won and all did rejoice.

CHAPTER IV.

- 1. Now, behold, a war broke out in Europe and many of the fellows, being of brave spirit, did separate themselves from sweethearts and home and did offer themselves for service.
- 2. And the Faculty blessed them for they showed good spirit.
- 3. And Blakely said unto those that did remain: "Let us all turn out and drill, for we must prepare ourselves to defend our King and Country."
- 4. And the Class turned out well and did miss labs and clinics that they might do as was asked of them.
- 5. And leaders were chosen from the Faculty that they might teach the students how to drill.
- 6. And one of them, whose first name was "Lizzie," did call out in a loud voice: "Right—Left. About turn—As you were!!!" and much confusion arose; for the students knew not what he meant.
- 7. And the fellows worked hard that they might expand in body and mind. And some said: "Let us keep up our sports, for we must keep our loins in good trim."
- 8. And they did so and great glory did shine on the Class for the athletic honors they obtained.

CHAPTER V.

- I. And now, he that hath ears to hear, let him hear; for there graduateth from the Faculty of Medicine, a class of young doctors, yea the likes of whom none yet have been found.
- 2. And the professors gathered together and did comment at great length among themselves concerning the many wonderful physicians that were going forth into the world.
- 3. And the professors and students did banquet together that they might bid farewell the one to the other.
- 4. And the students, being of good manhood, did hold their dinner dry as was their custom during their course.

And now that the chapter has ended And facing the world has begun, We thank God for the service He tended To us, as we plodded along.

Daffydil Night

≺ URE, everybody knows when you say "Daffydil Night" you refer to the biggest and funniest University night in the calendar. The explanation is simple—it's the Meds' night—'nuf sed. It dates back to 1911-12, when the present graduating year were freshmen —and oh so fresh! That year we had a real live Medical Society with R. R. McClennahan, President; Don Warren, Secretary; F. Eberhart, Treasurer; H. Kinsey, Curator; T. Routley, President of the Sophomore Year, and H. A. Hessian, President of the Freshies, all now overseas or going shortly. They conceived the idea that the Meds were not sufficiently demonstrating their proud position as leaders in University life in all its aspects since they were allowing the "despised" Arts to "put something over" on them in the shape of a funny night, viz., "Mock Parliament," for which the said Meds had no equal or superior—an unthinkable state of affairs—and "Daffydil Night" was the prescription handed out—and its treatment of the condition described was so effectual that the Meds now don't know what you mean when you refer to Mock Parliament, for Daffydil Night overshadows all.

The work the first year was arduous and often the Daffydil Committee were tempted to admit defeat, but spurred on by the encouragement, personal and financial, of a fun-loving Dean (Dr. C. K. Clarke) they finally produced in a sparsely filled Convocation Hall, with gratis admission, the first Daffydil Night. The Medical Society of the year following slumbered peacefully through its term of office and Daffydil Night was abandoned pro tem. The year following, 1914, the Old Guard rescued their creation and determined to make it a big and permanent success, and to this end a large silver cup, donated by the Faculty for inter-year competition, to be awarded to that year producing the funniest and cleverest 15 minute skit. This brought out the best talent in the various years and raised immensely the quality of the entertainment. Choruses, minstrels, orchestra, etc., became permanent features. Hessian that year originated and edited "The Epistaxis," a comic paper full of new jokes and burlesque cartooning of hospital and student life. It was printed in the Med colors of red, white and black and since then has been an annual feature, retaining the same editor. That year Convocation Hall was filled to overflowing. The "Daffydil Cup" was won by the present graduating year, 1T6, with the production of "A Eugenic Wedding"—a sidesplitting farce. Last year 1915 with only a few alterations in the committee, a splendid bill was provided and charging a 25c. admission fee, Convocation Hall seating capacity was subscribed twice over and a surplus of $150 was donated to the Social Service Department of the T. G. H. The Daffydil Cup was awarded to Class 1T7 for presentation of "The Ancient Order of Presbyterians"—which convulsed the house.

This year, in spite of the fact that 95 per cent. of the graduating year, 1T6 (who were the Freshmen Year at Daffydil Night's birth) and many of the other years are going to the front this spring, Daffydil Night, under the able chairmanship of A. W. Knox, who labored most unselfishly in pursuit of its success, achieved the pinnacle of popularity with both faculty and students. The hall again was absolutely inadequate to accommodate the throngs who wished to again see Daffydil Night and was sold out days before the date set for its production, February 16th. The Cup for the first time was won by the Freshmen 2To-with "The Minstrelettes"—a recordbreaking piece of clever acting. Many lantern views—donated by Dean Clarke—were shown; everything went off smoothly and Daffydil Night's permanency assured.

Class History 1T6 Applied Science

HE coming of Class 1T6 saw the beginning of decreased registration in the Faculty of Applied Science. The preceding year started with well on to 300 members, while 1T6 began its academic career with a bare 150. However, the Class of 1T6 soon proved itself a living example of that old adage—"quality, not quantity"—and the faculty soon learned that good things are done up in small parcels. Never in the history of Toronto University was there a freshman year that had so many representatives on first University athletic teams and, as a proof that grey matter was not lacking, 58 members obtained honors at the first year examinations.

After a few lectures had been indulged in and everybody had become more or less broke by constant journeys to the supply department, the Year arose as one individual and elected that tall, blonde, handsome young man, otherwise known as Mr. Fred. Mathews, as their year president.

Not long after the year got under way a few of the men became homesick one night and decided to take a trip back to their old home—Harbord Collegiate. Other means of entrance being closed, they used the coal-shute. Once safely (?) inside they began renewing acquaintances and these proved to be very touching affairs. The whole proceedings received such attention that many members of the Year narrowly escaped being mentioned in the society columns of the press.

Not satisfied with these few activities some of the lesser athletic lights of the Year who had not captured places on the first rugby team helped Junior School to win the Mulock Cup, and as a final wind-up before examinations became pressing the Year won the Loudon Shield for inter-year hockey.

After the pastime of examinations, so eagerly looked forward to by everyone, was over and the summer was but a period of the long past, the Year found itself safely ensconced in the rear of Convocation Hall. Here the proximity of the organ and the platform threatened to rob the engineering profession of several of its embryo members. Many were the rumors of departure for Knox, Wycliffe, Trinity and other theological centres. A hasty conference, however, saved the reputation, for the time being at least, of both the "School" and Theology.

The predominating mind behind this conference was the Year president, Mr. H. B. Little, but his name belies him. Nature surely made a sad mistake when she created a creature of his stature to adorn such a diminutive appellation. With the build of a Hercules and the will of a Cæsar, his might become famous and brought honor to himself and distinction to his year.

At this period much time was spent in erasing marks from drawings that had been put thereon by the beloved demonstrators. If they could but have had the slightest conception of the appreciation of this kindly action of theirs! If they could but have heard the murmured thanks! In fact, one did—the curtain must be drawn over the tender scene that followed; it was too of human nature can be understood.

December 5, 1913, will stand out in the memory of not only the members of Class 1T6, but every student in the School, and not a few graduates. The annual "School" dinner was held on this date in the first year draughting room and was arranged to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the entrance of the late Dean Galbraith into the University of Toronto as a student. Over six hundred graduates and students sat down that night and well on to the wee small hours of the morning the old red school-house was an echo of oratory and a blaze of glory.

tender for words. It is only by such occurrences that the versatility

About Christmas time the Year were bundled bag and baggage back to the first year quarters, owing to the second year draughting room being required for the Arts dinner. Can you imagine such colossal nerve! A whole school year having to give way to Arts! Looking back on it this incident stands out as one of the most amusing happenings of the whole four years. When they arrived back in the first year the faculty saw that they were so cram full of knowledge that the powers that be sent them back, so fast, in fact, that they nearly landed in the third year—so great was their momentum. However, after an intricate process of integration and differentiation they finally located themselves at an infinite distance from where they started.

When the straggling members of 1T6 returned for their third year it was to a different, a quieter and a more subdued School. In any other faculty this would have been but an annual occurrence, but in Applied Science it was, to say the least, a novelty. Two events, each momentous in its effect, had happened during the summer; events that were to have a great effect not only on one year or one faculty, but on the whole University, and one of them on the entire world. On July 22, 1914, our beloved dean, John Galbraith, M.A., died, and the School and student lost their best friend. The other event was that relationships between the Triple Entente and the Triple Alliance had reached a crisis and on August 4, 1914, our nation was plunged into a bitter war, how bitter none of us then realized.

On November 2, 1914, Ottawa authorized the formation of a branch of the C.O.T.C. nine companies strong. This was increased to twelve on December 14. As an index of the manner in which the Science students took hold of this serious problem, ninety-five per cent. joined the corps, a record not equalled by any other faculty in any university in Canada.

This year saw few activities outside of athletics and military work, and in both connections members of 1T6 quitted themselves like men. It was but a fitting climax that was to prove, for the time being, Charlie Gage's last year at Toronto University and should also see him astride the top rung of his athletic glory.

In military matters 1'16 was faithfully doing its duty and many officers of the C.O.T.C. were seen taking lectures with 1T6. The insistent call for men was becoming louder and as a result, out of about 150 that started the year only 80 reported for examinations.

These changed conditions gave the year president, Mr. J. H. Eastwood—the boy from the east—but little opportunity to display his many executive capabilities.

Towards the end of the session 1915 it became the duty of the School to select some member of 1T6 as president of the Engineering Society. After much smoke had been raised and blotters had been distributed in profusion, Mr. C. E. Hastings was found in possession of the keys of office.

At the beginning of the present academic year, owing to executive complications, Mr. Hastings resigned the presidency of the Engineering Society. Mr. W. L. Dobbin was subsequently unanimously elected president.

No sooner were things under way than the Year president, Mr. Jack Kirby, who is a renowned beauty, sought to endow the rest of the year with his own unsurmountable qualities. He lined all up and prayed that Mr. Farmer do his best, and it is not doubted but that the students of the future will gaze with rapture on the likenesses of men who once trod the ancestral halls where Toike Oike is wont to resound.

The C.O.T.C. thrives still and the call to arms through it is more insistent than ever. Already members of 1T6, in the persons of D. G. Hargarty, C. Smythe, R. A. Fraser, E. B. Allan and R. T. C. Hoige have obtained commissions in either the Canadian or Imperial forces. Many a man who as a freshman with 1T6 found himself in wrong lectures and doing all the absurd things freshmen are wont to do, is now on the firing line, striving to save civilization from a cruel fate. Once this is accomplished he will put away his gun, take up again his transit and level and do his part in rebuilding out of chaos order and uniformity.

Russell W. Kirn

GEOFFREY F. KING

"Why should life all labor be?"

Began his career in 1891 at Montreal, where he attended Westmount Academy. Later resided at Simcoe, Ont., obtaining matric, at the high school there in 1910. A loyal student, drilled in the C. O. T. C. His long legs and "School" training are bound to smooth the road to success.

JOHN R. KIRBY

"For he's a member of the midnight crew."

Jack came to light in 1890. Graduate of Parkdale Collegiate. Entered "School" with 176 and attached himself to the noisy end of the Year. Stuck with the Class by plugging for exams, and gained the presidency of the Year in its fourth round. He is finishing strong.

ROBERT W. KIRBY

"Of his own qualities, a modest man is dumb,"

"Bob" first saw the light of day right here in Toronto on March 24th, 1894. After a normal childhood of measles and mumps he entered U. T. S., from which he matriculated in 1912. His classmates of '16 know him to be a quiet, unassuming fellow and a hard worker. His favorite hobbies are motoring, and exercising a melodious bass voice.

RUSSELL W. KIRN

"Rusty" first made himself heard in Akron, Ohio. At the age of eight he moved to Peterboro, Ontario, completing his elementary education at Peterboro Collegiate. Entering Class '16 his "quiet" demeanor has won for him many fast friends. Good luck to Rusty.

OSWALD MARGISON
"He's a devil in his own home town."
"Margy" was born in Hull, Yorkshire, Eng., but in the bogus rush to the gold fields came to Victoria, B.C., where he received his earlier education. After becoming a "millionaire" in the printing business he entered "School" with Class '16. A very successful career in his profession is predicted.

W. BRUCE MITCHELL

"There's more in him than thou understand'st."

Nature intended well when she endeavored to hide away in the vicinity of London a newcomer. However, "Mitch" finally forced his way into the world and after teaching school for two years joined the Class of '16. He has been one of the most prominent students of the Class and his success is predicted.

JOHN C. NEWCOMBE

"In faith he is a gentleman Exceedingly well read."

Born at Toronto, December 22, 1893. Educated at the Model School and Harbord Collegiate Institute. Being keen for engineering he entered Class '15, but an accident due to gravity caused "Jack" to be in company with Class '16.

CECIL H. NEY

JOHN E. PRINGLE

"Happy the youth in Euclid's axioms tried, And versed in many an art beside."

Jack is a Hamilton product of May, 1895. Hamilton taught him all outdoor sports and enough to let him enter "School" with 1T6. Experience in Northern Ontario, Northern British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan has given him qualities which indicate a future in the profession.

JOHN RICHMOND "Much study is a weariness of the flesh."

"Rich." commenced activities on this planet in Smith's Falls. After graduating from collegiate there and spending a year in Arts, he entered School '15, but his foot slipped and he joined 1T6. He was an active member in athletics, having been secretary-treasurer and president of that Association. May success attend his efforts.

HARVEY E. ROSE

"His talents were for music rare His singing made the boys to swear."

"Twas in the summer of '94 that "Baldy" first rent the air of Seaforth with his lusty yells. Migrated to Guelph 1903, matriculating there 1911. Entering School with the Class of 176, he leaves as a popular graduate in Civil Engineering.

The Class History, R. C. D. S.

ES, we were freshies once. Twas in the fall of 1912 that our boys gathered from all parts of our fair Dominion. We represent practically every province of our country, some are from the cities, some from the towns, some from the farms, a truly wholesome variety and yet all with the one idea.

Well we remember the first time we gathered within our institutional walls and listened to the words of that most worthy man, the late Dean Willmott, as he attempted to give us such advice as would enable us to escape the pitfalls that would beset our path in the years to follow. During our first days we were surely in a unique situation, physically and mentally. We looked at the Sophs with a certain amount of dread for the day of the initiation had not yet come. We would almost take our hats off to the Seniors, and as for the professors we believed it almost impossible that they had themselves ever been freshies.

Soon we got acquainted and spent many an hour together dabbling in clay, puddling in plaster (every freshman puddles) and performing veritable works of art on the ivory.

While in lecture one bright morning we suddenly beheld the Sophs clearing the field of battle and laying up stores and ammunition. Undaunted by the sight we also prepared and proved as efficient in handling rouge, face creams, etc., of a dark shade, as did our worthy Sophs, with the result that after the fray all were of the same shade.

When we came back a year later we were much more learned, of course. During the opening days we spent most of our time tormenting the "poor freshies," disposing of many of our second-hand books and useless instruments, the aforesaid freshies being easy victims. In turn we became the chief adviser of "Freshy."

The "scrap" of course was the momentous question at this time. Our boys seemed to have some preconceived idea that this was to be the last, and made it one of "Memorable Renown." Some of the boys were so well decorated and mutilated that in consequence of this and later developments the faculty decided that from this time henceforth such exhibitions should be no more. Hereafter all we can do is to mourn for the memory of dear departed days.

Junior days find us settling down to more serious ways. We have dabbled in many of the "Ologies," investigated the mysteries of the human anatomy, constructed many appliances with more or less skill and even become initiated into infirmary practice and at the same time realizing some of our responsibilities

Senior days have come, but all too soon, for associations dear to us all will shortly be of the past. Some of our best and most lasting friendships we form in college days. In our freshman days how we looked in admiration at the senior and yet when we reach that one-time enviable position we find how much we have yet to learn, we begin to realize how quickly the time has gone and how little we have learned.

Our boys have always shown a good interest in all college activities, whether in the field of sport, the platform of debate, or the social function. Now at the close of our course we look back over our pathway, we review its dark and sunny spots, we are conscious of our successes and our failures, we think of the good times we have spent together, the friendships formed and we are loathe to leave it all, and yet we look forward with great hopes for the future. We realize we have much to learn, and yet we hope that to all the veil has been lifted, that we have caught the vision of our professional duty, and have become acquainted with the essentials that make for success.

In closing, we cannot but pay a tribute to our faculty, who have always shown a great interest in our welfare and have by precept and example guided the trend of our ways in such a manner that when we go forth and take upon ourselves the responsibilities of our chosen profession we should be a credit to ourselves, to our profession and to that institution for which we all have the greatest reverence, the Royal College of Dental Surgeons.

History of Class of 1916

HE forester must be an optimist; he must have faith to work for results which cannot complete themselves for many years. His work is to aid nature and to do this he must understand nature's methods, whether in forest primeval, drifting sand-plain, or mountain pasture.

In the fall of 1912 seven enthusiastic embyro foresters—Aiken, Burford, Dallyn, Hughes, Mc-Ewen, Porteous, and Thurston—were initiated into the mysteries of their art. In the following year Gilbert, Gill, and Lyons entered from Arts and "Burf" missed his year. The third year was enlivened by the presence of "Dutch" German, but he enlisted with "Thursty" as artillery signallers.

The fall of 1915 saw the University imbued with a feeling of the seriousness of the country's situation, as shown by the call for officers and men. The C.O.T.C. became the most important function of University life and the Forestry section of "K" company had good attendances. "Porty" and "Aike" set the example by going into training for Imperial commissions. "Hughesy" entered an aviation school, and on its break-up entered the second draft of Imperial officers with "Mac." "Dal" secured a commission in the 95th Battalion, and it is whispered is about to join the ranks of the benedicts. Gill joined the Imperial Motor Transports in Winnipeg. "Vic" Gilbert, of hockey fame, and "Bob" Lyons expect to follow suit shortly, making a complete transformation of the whole graduating year from scientists to, let us hope, but temporary warriors.

They leave their native land with the determination to do or die for its protection, but with hopes of returning to enjoy the task of protecting and developing its natural resources.

The Class History, Pharmacy

UR term is short. The many new acquaintances we have made here, the reiterations of the days gone past at school, the new surroundings, have linked themselves together and passed the time so quickly that now we find ourselves about to step out into the world and take the places which we have been predestined to fill. It marks an epoch in our lives, passing from the frivolities of youth to the duties of safeguarding the lives and health of the public.

No doubt the students of previous years have been imbued with the same national spirit of patriotism as we, but never before has such an opportunity presented itself that they might show their appreciation for the liberty and freedom afforded them by the British flag. Patriotic spirit has been in evidence throughout the whole year at the College, the students always responding gladly and whole-heartedly whenever called upon to assist in the alleviation of the sufferings of our fellow Canadians and all those who have offered their services to check the rush of the ravenous hordes of Huns.

In short, it has been "khaki" year at Pharmacy. A large percentage of the class have presented themselves at the U. of T. C.O.T.C. for military training preparatory to going overseas. Our first representative to go overseas was W. Wallace Watson, of Cornwall. Having passed his military examination at the close of the junior term, the New Year found him on his way to England, where he has received a commission with a Yorkshire regiment. His further training will be completed at Oxford Rifle College. Good luck to Wat! We're all proud of him.

During the first few weeks at school we organized our class, placing H. B. Lough at its head, with an able staff to assist him, and we feel assured that we have judged our officers rightly. It has afforded us great pleasure to appoint as honorary vice-presidents the three ladies who have honored us by attending Pharmacy with the 1T6 Class. We feel that we should make particular mention of this fact, since the 1T5 Class were not so honored.

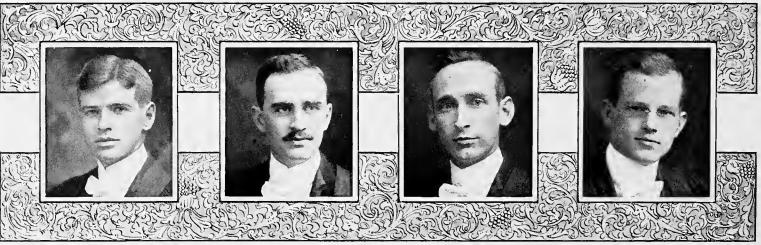

Having elected our officers, the soccer promoters formed a football team, but unfortunately after a deal of hard work they discovered that they had harder working competitors. The winter season opened with a series of social events, consisting of theatre night at the Royal Alex. on Nov. 9, an informal class dance on Nov. 25, and a banquet on Feb. 23 at the St. Charles. These were all enjoyed by the students in general and were carried out successfully by an efficient committee.

With the winter season also came the hockey and, backed by the crowd of enthusiastic rooters, the team skated fast, but the fates were against them.

Now all we pray for is the help of the gods in the coming exams. Having imbibed from all the text-books to be found in the city, let us trust in Dame Fortune to carry us through and send us on our way rejoicing. But should we fail in this attempt it is not because Dean Heebner and his staff haven't given us a brilliant tutelage.

The University Front Campus

Class---1916---History

T.

Some people think to be a Vet. you don't have to go to school,

That you need no education to treat a horse or mule:

But if you're from Missouri, just take a tip from me,

Just come across the border and attend the O.V.C.

II.

When you've gained a little knowledge of the things you ought to know,

Just take a Pullman sleeper and back to Missouri go.

And if you are successful, don't tell every Tom and Dick,

Let them think that you're a genius if science does the trick.

W. P. O'Brien.

Let us go back to the fall of 1913, and we find that the old O.V.C. again opened its doors to welcome students from all parts of the globe, all with the same object in view: that to become a veterinary surgeon. Not only from all the Provinces of Canada, but almost all the States of the Union, Great Britain, West Indies, and far-away New Zealand we came.

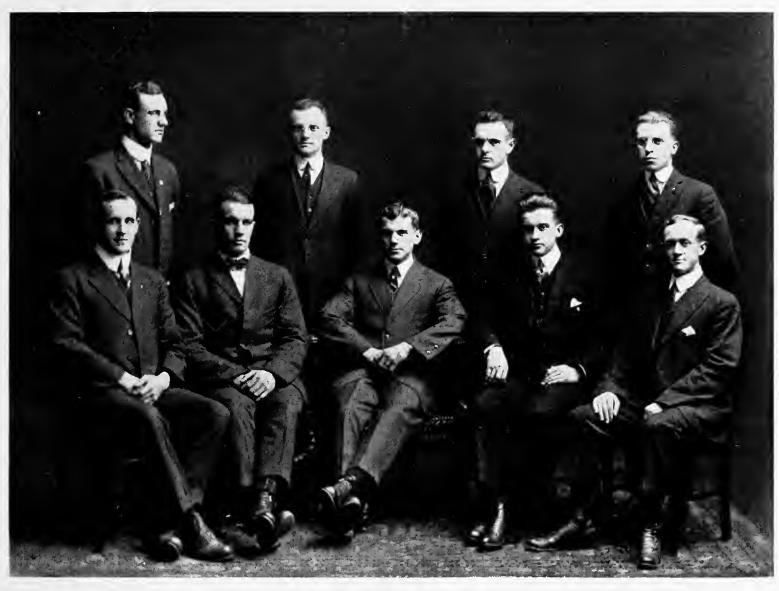

On the evening of Oct. 2, 1913, the formal opening of the session of 1913-14 was held in the Assembly Hall. We were met and greeted by Dr. E. A. A. Grange, President Falconer, m Venerable Archdeacon Cody, and Dr. D. King Smith, all of whom delivered very inspiring addresses and set our wheels of ambition in motion. We were introduced to our upper classmates at 10 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 10th by an unwelcome initiation, which had a tendency to metastasis for we were again attacked two weeks later in a little more virulent form, but evidently the previous attack rendered us immune, therefore their attempts were futile. Our course through the first year was directed by J. O. Nicholson and an efficient executive. After the Christmas vacation most of our time was spent in the anatomical laboratory and all too soon came the time to write our final examinations. During the last week of the session one of our most promising fellow-students, M. J. Stafford, passed to the great beyond, and during the summer vacation we lost another member of the Class, E. Spearman.

Oct. 1, 1914, found us together again, as juniors, in our new home on University Avenue, which afforded us better accommodations to continue our professional course. We found that Drs. Saunders and Richmond had responded to their country's call, their places being filled by Drs. Caley and McKichan respectively. Much to our sorrow we learned that 15 of our former classmates were absent at the roll-call, but we were glad to welcome three former students to our Class. On October 15th we formally initiated the members of the Class of '17, using the new anatomical laboratory as the scene of our activities. With W. A. Robertson as president we began our second year, but in the spring he, and the vice-president, H. J. Davis, joined the C.A.V.C., leaving these offices vacant, but F. E. Maxwell, the secretary, filled the vacancy. Realizing his worthiness as a leader, the Class elected him president of the Senior Year. During the summer of 1915 three more of the staff had joined the colors, namely, Drs. Amyot and Smith and Mr. Shaver, their places being most efficiently filled by Drs. Schofield and McCullough and Mr. Bell respectively.

The various social activities have been well looked after and patronized by students and faculty, the Class of '16 having surpassed all previous classes in this respect. The Class was also foremost in the organization of the College Y.M.C.A. in the spring of '15. Athletics have not been neglected, the Class of '16 has ever been in the lime-light, having won the College Shield during the sessions of 1914-15 and 1915-16, the cup winners for both years being members of this Class.

The few years spent together have been exceedingly pleasant and will long be remembered. The prediction for all members is a bright future, full of usefulness both as good citizens and professional men. There may not be a man who will attain a world-wide fame, as Rutherford, Grange, Melvin or Liautard, but all will be good average men, the mainstay of a community. A man who does his duty by his family, his friends and his business associates gains fame enough, and in these ways the men of Class '16 will lead.

Should old acquaintance be forgot,
Wherever we may be,
Think on the good old times we spent
At the dear old O.V.C.

WII,LIAM A. GARDINER
"Only expensive furniture has a marble top."
Poor Bill! He's Scotch! Forgive him! He never meant to be.

In Huron County he learned to milk cows, chase butterflies and pick potato bugs. But Bill's ambitions were too big for such ordinary pursuits,
In Toronto University he chased Greek and Latin and picked the fruits of honest toil.

Victoria Conference Theology Class

E do not propose to ransack the philosophies, or to exploit the masters of literature in analyzing and describing the outgoing Conference Theology Class of '16. They are hyper-modest men. They do not vaunt themselves, nor are they puffed up. They insistently prefer to depart from the college halls unheralded and unsung. The grace of humility may be said to have reached its highest degree of expression in their unobtrusive circle. Yet the "ultimate decency of things" demands that the shrinking ascetics receive the due meed of recognition they have won in their college term. We do not exhaust their excellencies; such a feat is beyond journalistic compass. We merely offer an index to their undisputed worth.

In 1913 the Michael Fawcett Prize, the Literary Society's award for oratory, and a prize in Homileties went to two of its members.

1914 saw the gold medal for oratory go to the Class again.

In the first term of 1915 we were honored in furnishing one representative in the inter-collegiate debate between Victoria and McMaster University. Acta Victoriana also is used as the medium by which one of our fellowship attempts to further mystify an already thought-wearied student body. The Students' Council, the Y. M. C. A. Executive, the Union Literary Society Executive and the Collegian Debating Society have all been augmented by its deputies. Rugby and soccer, the alley-board and basketball and other frivolities of an unecclesiastical and unreflective order have received the worshipful devotion of the fraternity.

But what of the future? Prophecy is always a hazardous venture. Your most promising Morley Punshon may become what the Methodist discipline euphemistically styles "located." But close observation of the personnel of Class 1916 warrants us in predicting that the high traditions of Canadian Methodism are in no danger of compromise by the men who go to serve her from this Year.

"Every addition to true knowledge is an addition to human power,"

J. F. H, was born in 1890. When a student at Richmond Ilill High School, qualifying for the teaching profession, he received the call to the Methodist ministry. He entered "Vic." in 1912, winning the respect of all who knew him by his thoughtfulness and gentlemanly bearing. He graduated in 1916, with promise of a life of Christian service.

HARRY PAWSON

"There were thousands and thousands of human kind In that desert of brick and stone, But some were deaf and some were blind, And he was there alone."

Harry resolves our doubts of the super-mundane; he belongs to another sphere than the terrestrial and his existence is the evidence. Literature alone holds Harry in a domain where eating and drinking are a necessity; but for it he would depart to contemplate the Absolute, even though it meant drinking the hemlock.

WALTER RACKHAM

Social Service Department

Class History

PROF. FRANKLIN JOHNSON, Jr. Director of the Department of Social Service.

O those interested in the social welfare of Canada the opening of a department of social service in the University of Toronto was felt to be an event of great significance and promise.

Lectures were held last year in the Department of Domestic Science and the numbers and enthusiasm of the students enrolled showed that the department was filling a long-felt need.

The vague rumor of last year that the Department of Social Service was to have a building of its own became greatly intensified as the new term approached. An eager throng of students came from far and near to enroll their names. Where was the building? Somewhere in Queen's Park! Each day might be seen earnest, seriousminded (?) individuals wandering vaguely in search of the elusive building. After many inquiries and much patience the Social Service Department of the University of Toronto was located. Since these early days the department has manifested its presence by a beautiful brass plate—with its name inscribed thereon! Any further information may be found in the telephone book!

The building, an old residence, is nobly adapting itself to its new status as a seat of learning. The large rooms on the main floor lend themselves very readily to class-rooms, while those upstairs were easily converted into library and reading-room. The "rest-room" at present hardly lives up to its name, but there is hope for the future. But the library is the "pièce de resistence." There are still a good many empty shelves, but there is a brave show of books already and the promise of many more to come. The students, in their insatiable desire for knowledge, have to be restrained from carrying away too many of the precious volumes at one time.

There are twenty-four students this year who are taking the full course and two hundred and eighty-seven part-time students, deaconess', Young Women's Christian Association workers, etc., who attend various lectures. The work is wide in scope and character, also very practical as it is obligatory for each student to do at least ten hours' field work during the week.

The full-time students have organized an association called Social Service Students' Organization of the University of Toronto, which meets once a week for lunch and discussion of topics bearing on the work and interests of social workers. These meetings have been greatly enjoyed and have given opportunities both to those who wish to revive the inner man and to those who desire to exercise their oratorical powers.

Now that the Social Service Department has been definitely established, surely the coming years will prove its value and the work of its qualified graduates aid in promoting the welfare of the nation.

"A rosebud set about with little wilful thorns."

Born in Toronto. Graduated from the Presbyterian Ladies' College. After travel abroad and much golf she entered the halls of learning once more with the Class of 1916 in the Social Service Department of the University of Toronto.

DOROTHY W. EDDIS

"So long as we love, we serve."

Australia's gift to a sister Dominion. Educated in Toronto, studying art also in New York. Entered this course with eager mind to seek a remedy for social ills which she had long perceived. The gracious President of Class '16, to her a youthful organization stands indebted for much earnest

MARION ELDER

"But each for the joy of the working."

After graduating from Grace Hospital, Detroit, Marion Elder, of Streetsville, was attracted, as other nurses with high ideals have been, to the field of Medical Social Service. The profession she has chosen is noble and she is well fitted by nature and by training to be successful in it.

MARJORIE GOULD

"And still the wonder grew,
That one small head could carry all she knew."

After doing excellent work at Harbord Collegiate and St. Margaret's College, Marjoric Gould entered Social Service, specializing in Child Welfare. In this important phase of the work her winning personality and broad sympathies will stand her in good stead.

STELLA B. M. IRELAND

"With . . . nods and becks and wreathed smiles."-Milton.

To Havergal and later to Social Service Stella brought scintillating jollity and enthusiasm as well as real purpose. She is rightly considered one of the "stars" of the Class.

ELIZABETH LAMBE

"Leaves her praises unexpressed and leaves her greatness to be guessed."

Elizabeth, Bessie, Betty, and Bess, popular alike at Branksome Hall, Margaret Eaton, Lillian Massey, saw in Social Service her real scope for usefulness. In this broad field her versatility and winsome nature will mean much.

ETHEL C. S. LOVELL

"This fine old world of ours is but a child."-The Princess.

A temperament that digests Thackeray with Bernard Shaw, and does not preclude Florence Barclay. Accomplishments, of which bridge and Beethoven are not the least; a cheery disposition—but above all a conviction that promises not to stop with theory.

HANNAH G. MATHESON

"One must be something in order to do something."

Born in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia. Came to Toronto as a student at Glen Mawr. From here she entered the University, enrolling in U.C. in Class '09. Dropped out for two years, finally receiving her Arts degree in '12.

University College Women's Undergraduate Association

OR four years the Women's Undergraduate Association has been fulfilling its functions of controlling and unifying the interests of the women of University College. Every woman undergraduate is a member of this organization, and all questions which arise touching the interest of the women of the College are thoroughly discussed in the meetings before receiving the approval or disapproval of the whole association. By means of the "Rest Room" teas, the W. U. A. has endeavored to bring the women of the various courses more into touch with one another, and has been particularly successful in regard to the women of the science courses, who have otherwise very little opportunity of meeting those of the Arts courses. This year the Red Cross work has absorbed much of the attention of the Society. It has endeavored to work in co-operation with our own University Base Hospital Association. Many of the undergraduates have helped faithfully with the supply work carried on at the Physics Building and at Examination Hall. The Association has also supervised the various Tag Days and Red Cross collections. The W. U. A. has taken an active interest in the formation of the Women's Student Council of the University of Toronto, which includes representatives from Victoria, St. Hilda's, St. Michael's, Medicine and University College. This Council will, however, in no way interfere with the work of the W. U. A. At present, the Rest Room is scarcely adequate for the various needs of the women of the College, and it is to be hoped that when larger and more suitable quarters are found, the W. U. A. may carry on its work to even greater advantage than it has hitherto been able to do.

Women's Literary Society of University College

HE 1915-16 season of the Women's Literary Society of University College commenced with the annual autumn tea, held in West Hall, in October. The tea was a splendid success, and will be remembered by the women of 1T9 as one of the most enjoyable events of their freshman year. At the following meeting a mock parliament was the programme for the evening—the government bringing in a bill to enforce economy on the women students. This was hotly debated by the opposition, who defeated the bill. The first meeting in December was given over to Red Cross work in connection with the University Base Hospital,

Mrs. Bensley addressing the meeting. The second meeting in December was a Christmas one, when a portion of Dickens' Christmas Carol was staged. The oratorical contest took place at the first meeting in January and an open meeting was held on January 28th at which the Men's Lit. of U.C. joined with Women's Society and helped to spend a very enjoyable and memorable evening. The Alumnæ took one evening, when the interesting subject, "Vocations for Women," was discussed. The last meeting of the Society, which was purely literary, closed one of the most successful seasons of Women's Lit. of U.C.

HE purpose of the Y. W. C. A. is a personal discipleship that shall be studious, well-informed, catholic in sympathy and service, yet practical withal.

The Association aims at carrying out this purpose in various ways. A meeting for intercession is held every morning. The attendance has been small but regular, and those present have felt rewarded. General meetings have been eliminated as much as possible, but three interesting and successful ones have taken place. The first, on Oct. 14th, dealt with the purpose of the Y. W. C. A. and the responsibility of the individual student. It was addressed by the president. Later in the term we were addressed by Miss Harvey and Miss Flart, of St. Christopher House, on social questions and the Settlement. On Jan. 20th Miss Rouse spoke to a joint meeting of the different college associations on "The Association in Wartime.

Informal teas are held on Sunday afternoon in the Household Science Building. These are chiefly in order that the women of the upper years, and especially the Cabinet, may meet the freshettes. Everyone has been enthusiastic in regard to these teas, and we consider ourselves more than fortunate in having the use of the Household Science Building.

Bible Study groups have had interested members; Social Study groups discuss such questions as municipal government, or vocations for women. For reasons difficult to discover, Mission Study does not arouse much interest among the women, and it has been no easy task for the convener to organize classes.

The Elgin House Conference is the link between the college years. It will be a good augury for the coming year if the delegation to the Conference in June be as large and as happy as was that of 1915.

Into the lecture stepped the girls of Queen's Hall, Smiling first a little smile
As if they knew what magic slept
In their knitting needles the while;
Then like musical adepts

To drown the lecturer their needles they twirled, You heard as if an army muttered, And the muttering grew to a grumbling, And the grumbling grew to a mighty rumbling of needles);

And out of their kits the yarn came tumbling, Grey yarn, white yarn, black yarn, blue yarn, Gold yarn, rose yarn, red yarn, yellow yarn. Just as methought I'd slip out of the noise, Saying to myself in a lowered voice,

"Knit on, knit on, layer on layers At dinner, luncheon, breakfast and prayers," Gasped a plodding 'prentice in an hysterical strain,

"O h—l, what have we here," "purl or plain"!

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE WOMEN'S ATHLETIC EXECUTIVE.

The Women's Athletic Association of University College

T is to be hoped that the time will come when every girl will feel that she must not only be a member of the Athletic Association but that she must also take an active interest in it. To be sure, the number of members is increasing every year, and the result of our efforts is becoming more apparent, but we urge those who are still indifferent to come and join us.

Very few students can take part in all departments of athletics, but just see the wide choice there is—tennis, basketball, fencing, bockey, swimming and physical culture.

In tennis, we have been doing exceptionally good work, having won the cup for the last two years; in basketball and hockey many splendid matches have been played; in swimming, four of the six T's were granted University College girls, one of whom won the championship; in physical culture, the classes have been well attended, and there has been a great increase in the number taking part, but the Association will not be satisfied until everyone has joined, because it is for mutual benefit that this Association exists.

The question of inter-collegiate athletics for women was raised this year. We decided it was impossible, as long as the war lasts, both on account of the shortening of the academic term and the expense it would involve. But we would recommend to the subsequent Athletic Executives to work for it as soon as they see their way clear.

One thing we do urge, and that is—turn out and support the teams. But, again, do not be satisfied with mere rooting, but get into the game yourself and become "physically fit."

The Anglican Women's Club of the University of Toronto

HE Anglican Women's Club was inaugurated in 1909. The main purpose of the club is to bring the women of the Church of England, who are students of the University, into touch with one another.

In order to further this aim, the club in its present year meets regularly once a fortnight. These meetings are alternately held at the Church of England Deaconess and Missionary Training House, which is affiliated with the club, and at the home of the Honorary President, Mrs. Griffith Thomas, who for some time has shown a kindly interest in the club.

It is also the aim of the club to lend, as far as opportunity permits, some slight aid to the poor of the city. The meetings already held this year have proved very enjoyable, and it is the earnest wish of all the present members that the future of the club may be bright and long.

WOMEN'S DRAMATIC CLUB EXECUTIVE, 1915-16.
Helen Kirby, Isobel Cassidy,

Agnes Muldrew.

The Women's Dramatic Club

OMEN'S Dramatic Club of the University of Toronto has been in existence almost ten years. The object of the Club is to produce one of Shakespeare's comedies each year. The plays which they especially favor are: "As You Like It," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Twelfth Night," "Much Ado About Nothing." These have been found the most successful productions.

The play undertaken by the Club for the year 1915-16 was "Much Ado About Nothing." Though the parts were not very evenly divided and the great burden of the production fell on a few, we have enjoyed producing this play very much. Dr. Kirkpatrick filled us all with enthusiasm by his vivid suggestions for interpreting each character. The part of Beatrice was most gracefully filled by Miss Edna Bach. Her teasing-banter and easy movement on the stage was quite delightful as a contrast to the debonair self-assurance of our complacent Benedick, Miss Dorothy McMillan. We had a most jovial and whole-hearted Don Pedro in Miss Mabel Child.

Our glowering, sulky Don John added his bitter touch to the laughter and wit of this sparkling comedy in the person of Miss Margaret Wilson.

One of the most attractive features about the University productions is the comic parts. Dogberry with his silly conceit, his roaring and bluster was excellently portrayed by Miss Margaret Tytler. Dogberry's weak and timorous partner, Verges, Miss Margaret Philips acted. This rarely assorted pair kept the audience in continuous laughter.

Miss Helen Kirby gave an excellent interpretation of old Leonato. Miss Isobel Cassidy played the part of "Sweet Hero," whose meek and unassuming grace was offset by the poetical and self-centred Claudio, which character Miss Louise Kennedy played. Some excellent music was rendered by our solist, Miss McCov, our pianist, Miss Manser, and School of Science Orchestra. The Club considers this to have been a very satisfactory year. The surplus funds will be devoted to Red Cross purposes.

University of Toronto, Y. M. C. A.

→ HE Young Men's Christian Association of the University of Toronto has for its peculiar purpose and special duty the promotion among the men students of religious interest and activities. It is natural and normal for men to be religious, to strive for the realization of ideals, to aspire to better and higher conceptions. The religious consciousness is best developed during a man's student days. The University spirit is that of earnest inquiry after truth; the atmosphere is that of intellectual freedom. During student days a man's outlook is broadened and his sympathies are enlarged. and at this time he is most open to the influence of the Christian ideal; most responsive to the Christian conception of life, and the Christian doctrine of service.

Therefore, the University period of a man's life is a golden opportunity for the presentation of the claims of Jesus Christ; for the study of his message; and through these, for character-building; as well as the all-important problem of the means of continuing and spreading the knowledge of the Christ-ideal and Christ-spirit throughout the world.

It is the function of the Y.M.C.A. to do its "bit" in making the best of the opportunity at hand to encourage the study of the Bible, and the study of mission needs; to promote a desire for better living; to encourage participation in practical efforts for the betterment of the lives of men. Surely this is a field of supreme importance and value.

During the past year the work of the Association was carried on under circumstances altered by the war. In the minds of everyone, the war's demands pressed as the first duty. Red Cross and kindred appeals, military drill, study of the war, and, above all, the constant drain of men for overseas enlistment militated against continuity of work. However, in looking back over the present year, the various departments show up well in a comparison with normal times. The Bible Study groups in the various colleges were well attended throughout the year. The Missionary Conference in December stimulated wartime interest in missions. Volunteer workers were supplied to the down-town settlements.

The outstanding feature of the year was the visit of Raymond Robbins to Toronto in January, while on a tour of American and Canadian colleges. Mr. Robbins was brought into contact with a large number of men in college groups and in Convocation Hall meetings. The appeal he made for men to follow the Christian ideal could not be ineffective, strengthened as it was by the character of the man who made it, and the practical efforts he is making as a public man in the service of his fellow-men. His outlook and appeal are so sane and on so high a plane that he could not fail to inspire high resolves in the hearts of college men.

The Y.M.C.A. aims to be and really is the most effective unifying force in the University. It is the only organization in which large numbers of men from different faculties meet on common ground for common purposes. Yet one cannot but feel the desirability for the sake of a "Toronto spirit" as opposed to a local college loyalty of closer knowledge and sympathy among the men of the several faculties. Much of the work of the Association has perforce to be done in separate college groups, even where it would be, if practicable, of much value to broaden the views of all through contact with men of different interests.

The greatest factor in the past for the development of a united sentiment has been the association of students in "Y" work. The greatest hope for the future, I believe, is still the Y.M.C.A., with the much greater advantage it will have through the new Hart House. building alone, which has been so admirably devised and planned with such a clear appreciation of the needs of the students and of the University, will be the unifying centre needed. The Association will have the use of quarters in the building in close touch with all student activities. The Y.M.C.A. will be a common centre, the expression of a worthy interest, and will be more than ever a force for the good of the University and the individual student.

International Polity Club

♦HE International Polity Club was probably more directly affected by the war than any other University association. Avowedly founded for the discussion of international relations, for the purpose of getting at the points of friction between countries, it saw the whole reason for its being undermined and destroyed by the conflicts now raging. The Club faces a second year of war in healthy condition, and with a programme drawn up to fit the needs of the time. Though there has been a drastic change in the Club's policy, yet the spirit and purpose, that of mutual helpfulness, is the same. It is a time of action, not of words, and realizing this the Club mapped out a year of useful and patriotic work. A register of volunteer workers was prepared to assist the Red Cross and other organizations in their regular work and in emergencies, when responsible workers are needed on a few hours' notice. The scheme which appeals most widely is the "Save Your Paper" campaign, by which the Polity Club, with the co-operation of the students, has undertaken to furnish regularly University men on overseas service with copies of the Varsity, college magazines and scrapbooks. The latter contain "News from Home" and are compiled by the women of Queen's Hall. Many letters have been received from Varsity men at the front expressing their appreciation of this thoughtfulness. By this means it is hoped to utilize the surplus University energy, and to give everyone an opportunity of "doing his bit," and to carry on some really useful work for the sake of the common cause.

Newman Club

T is much to the surprise of a freshman when he is told that Newman Hall was founded but three short years ago. Hard is it to believe that any association could in such a short space of time attain such great popularity and acquire such a solid foundation. The reason may be that there was formerly a heartfelt need and Newman Hall worthily supplied the want. Its work has been conducted during this period somewhat after the fashion of a Catholic Y. M. C. A.

For the first two years the rector was Rev. T. F. Burke and he must be given due credit for to him the Club owes much of its success. The new rector is Rev. Jno. Burke, a man of action and character, who in a short space of time has added new interest to every Club activity.

The ultimate objects are many, chief amongst them the encouraging of the members in the practice of their religion and its duties. There are three services on Sunday, Mass at nine, after which is served a light breakfast. At ten Mass is again said and evening devotions are conducted at seven. At these latter services important topics are dealt with in the instructions. The world at large expects every student with a university education to be able to give some account of his religion. To enable him to do this the topic usually consists in the explanation of some fundamental doctrine of the Church. Monthly Communions have been introduced this year and afford a reunion for over two hundred members of the Club, as there is a full attendance. So through the year every religious need is looked after by timely devotions and the annual retreat.

But the Club does not confine itself to religious activities. In the literary and social fields it has progressed with great strides. Each Friday evening are given entertainments which are varied to sustain the interest. One, however, is reserved each month for the Club dance. As usual on Wednesday afternoons the ladies give their tea. The proceeds this year go for our boys at the front. The Saturday afternoon musicales are gaining a well-deserved and widespread popularity. The talent obtained is the best in this country. But to mention a few: The stars of the Boston Grand Opera Company, the Cherniovsky Brothers, Miss Evelyn Starr; these and many other artists of rare ability willingly rendered their services to the Club and carried away with them the sincerest gratitude of Newman Hall.

The "Year Book" campaign this year is a great success, owing to the earnestness of the members. Their motto is "Ten thousand or bust." Seven teams were organized and the rivalry between them is much in evidence. This work is a material aid in keeping up the maintenance of Newman Hall.

Members of both sexes are doing their bit for their country. In the khaki-clad ranks of the army in France are seen the faces of many Newman Club members among both officers and men of the ranks. The majority of those left behind are training in the C.O.T.C. At teas and receptions the occasional click of the knitting needle tells the part the fair sex is also playing in helping our soldier boys.

Much of the effectiveness of the Club consists in its hold upon the graduates. The undergraduate body is backed up by a powerful Alumni Association, which holds its regular meetings in the Club building. This constitutes a strong link by which the influence of the Club is extended beyond the limits of the University. On the whole in a short space of time Newman Hall has accomplished vastly more than the common majority expected.

Valedictory

GAIN the time has come to say good-bye. Our Alma Mater has sent many sons and daughters forth throughout the years, but never has she felt the heart-pangs of farewell as this year, and never have her children gone forth so sadly, and, aye, so bravely.

For many it is good-bye forever. Some have already sighed out young lives "somewhere in Flanders," sending a brave farewell across the water to the old mother who let them go for God and the King proud as the ancient Roman matrons, who gave their sons their shields and bade them go. And then, like Rachel for her children crying, she hides her head and weeps.

Four happy years we have spent in this mimic world. Its grey old towers and its sunny campus have seen many battles fought, many victories won—battles of books, battles of men, and victories in that inner life which no man knoweth but himself. As each succeeding generation packs up its books and play-toys and departs, it leaves a record of these things behind. Into the brick and stone of hall and tower there goes a mysterious and nameless something. It is the "familiar" of the place. Each freshman greets it instinctively. Each senior leaves it regretfully.

Here, in the easy comradeship of the republic of letters, we have lived and laughed, struggled and sighed, and dreamed dreams—and great things have come from dreams. Our lives have been a record of high achievement and not ignoble failure. From the store of precious things which our Alma Mater has opened up before us, we have taken as our gifts warranted, as our likes and dislikes dictated. Some have come and gone, like ships that pass in the night, but their numbers are few. Some bear away trophies of wholesome and stimulating friendships. Some have seen vistas of new and undiscovered country open up before them, glimpses of great and eternal truths, whose margins fade forever and forever as we move, and lead us on to fresh endeavor and fresh conquest. For all it has been a story of imaginations kindled, of activities stirred, of hearts touched.

Now what does all this mean? It means that every man and woman who goes forth this year, goes forth a little more serious, a little better, a little happier, perhaps a little sadder. But where illusions are lost, hopes and high resolves are gained—resolves for unselfish service and wholehearted citizenship. In it let there be no place for pedantry or arrogance or self-conceit. Over it let the spirit of aspiration, reverence and humility continually abide. Let us refuse credence to all that is unworthy, sufficiently conscious of fallibility to be tolerant of all opinion, with a faith too wide for doctrine, and a benevolence untrammelled by creed.

"Noblesse oblige." Our nobility is not born of the sword of kings—but of honest study and struggle and high purpose to be true to the best that is in us. Our obligation is to leave some corner of the world a little better and happier than when we entered it.

There are two choices open to us. One is the voice crying in the wilderness, away from men—the man clad in skins—the ascetic—the radical—the agitator. His mission is to destroy, not to construct. The other, like the Man-Son of old, lives the normal life of men—a man among men—accepting the standing order—paying tribute unto Cæsar—touching elbows with all men—respecting the conventions of society—healing and helping mankind from the common standing ground of human life. Heedless of the passing fashions of the day or century, he sees his work in the long history of human endeavor after truth.

Let us make our choice and go—to live, to love, to labor for the good of all and add our little store to the pyramid of human happiness and achievement.

So, "mother dear," farewell! The Vestal Virgins of our memories shall heap perpetual incense at thy shrine. Ave atque vale, Alma Mater. We look at thee, once more, sad to leave, and glad to go. We turn our faces towards the rising sun. ARTHUR KENNEDY.

The Royal Military College of Canada.

HERE are few national institutions of more value and interest to the country than the Royal Military College of Canada. Notwithstanding this, its object and the work it is accomplishing are not sufficiently understood by the general public. The College is a Government institution, designed primarily for the purpose of giving instruction in all branches of military science to Cadets and Officers of the Canadian Militia. In fact it corresponds to Woolwich and Saudhurst.

The Commandant and military instructors are all officers on the active list of the Imperial army, lent for the purpose, and there is in addition a complete staff of professors for the civil subjects which form such an important part of the College course. Medical attendance is also provided.

Whilst the College is organized on a strictly military basis the cadets receive a practical and scientific training in subjects essential to a sound modern education.

The course includes a thorough grounding in Mathematics, Civil Engineering, Surveying, Physics, Chemistry, French and English.

The strict discipline maintained at the College is one of the most valuable features of the course, and in addition, the constant practice of gymnastics, drills and outdoor exercises of all kinds, ensures health and excellent physical condition.

Commissions in all branches of the Imperial service and Canadian Permanent Force are offered annually.

The diploma of graduation is considered by the authorities conducting the examination for Dominion Land Surveyor to be equivalent to a university degree, and by the Regulations of the Law Society of Ontario, it obtains the same exemptions as a B.A. degree.

The length of the course is three years, in three terms of $9\frac{1}{2}$ months each.

The total cost of the course, including board, uniform, instructional material, and all extras, is about $800.

The annual competitive examination for admission to the College takes place in May of each year, at the headquarters of the several military divisional areas and districts.

For full particulars regarding this examination and for any other information, application should be made to the secretary of the Militia Council, Ottawa, Ont., or to the Commandant, Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

Quality—and the part it plays

OU as a graduating student of 'Varsity should go forth into the business or professional world much more appreciative of quality than the average man or woman. You would naturally appreciate the really tangible worth of quality in such things as "Ryrie Diamonds" or "Ryrie-made Silverware," for instance.

You must realize also that it is always a good plan when buying an article, in which quality is so important a consideration, to have a name on that article which so definitely means quality and is universally so understood. The "Ryrie" mark on your Engagement Ring—on the Silverware you buy for the new home—wherever you find it—will always be an endorsement of your good taste and good judgment. The satisfaction you will have in knowing, beyond all possibility of doubt, that your purchases are really good, is infinitely worth while.

itely worth while.

Wherever you may go after leaving "Old 'Varsity," as long as mail can reach you, you have the full facilities of this establishment placed at your disposal, through our mail order system. ONTARIO DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

ENLISTMENT AND THE SCHOOLS

From time to time, especially since last September, young men who have been attending the Provincial Secondary and Normal Schools and Faculties of Education in preparation for teachers' certificates have asked the Department of Education to grant them their certificates, although they have not completed the courses therefor, in order that they might enlist at once for overseas service in the present war. To have complied with their wishes would have meant in most cases a lowering of the standard for such certificates and a resulting injury to our schools. Recognizing, however, the patriotic zeal of these young men and intending that the Department also shall do "its bit" in the momentous struggle in which the Dominion is now taking part, the Acting Minister of Education has decided upon the course set forth in the Regulations below. He promises also on behalf of the Ontario Government that, in carrying them out, as much sympathetic consideration will be shown for those concerned as is consistent with the educational necessities of the Province.

REGULATIONS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

(1) On the conditions prescribed in (3) below, candidates in attendance at High and Continuation Schools and Collegiate Institutes in preparation for the next ensuing Middle or Upper School examination who enlist for overseas service in the present war, will, on application to the Department of Education after their return to Ontario, be admitted to one session of a Summer School for said examinations with exemption from fees and with an allowance for their travelling expenses to and from their ordinary places of abode at the beginning and close of the session.

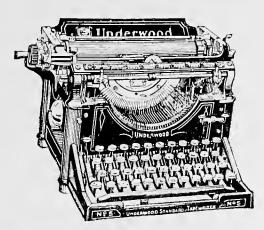

(2) On the conditions prescribed in (3) below, teachers-in-training at the Normal Schools or Faculties of Education who enlist for overseas service in the present war and other candidates for teachers' certificates who also enlist for such service and who hold the necessary entrance certificates, obtained either before or after enlistment, will, on application to the Department of Education after their return, be admitted for one session to a Normal School or a Faculty of Education, as the case may be, the former at or about the same time as that of their withdrawal, and the latter at the beginning of the session, with exemption from fees and with an allowance for travelling expenses as in (1) above, and an allowance at the rate of $5.00 a week for board and lodging during the whole of part of the session, as the case may be.

(3) The conditions referred to in (1) and (2) above are as follows:

(a) With his application for admission to a Summer or a Normal School or a Faculty of Education the candidate shall submit to the Minister of Education a certificate of honorable discharge from the Department of Militia and Defence, Ottawa, and, when required by the conditions, a certificate from the Principal or Dean, as the case may be, stating the date of his leaving the school or the Faculty, with his standing therein.

(b) The candidate's application for said admission shall be made to the Minister at as early a date as the latter may deem practicable after the candidate's discharge from the service.

Note—It is expected that, before, or instead of, entering a Summer School, the candidates will utilize the opportunities offered by the local Secondary Schools, as may best suit the stage of their preparation for the academic examinations; and, in the judgment of the Government, it will be eminently fitting for the municipalities to which they belong to recognize their claims by granting them financial assistance during the period of their preparation. Such assistance by the Government or by the municipalities may be accepted as a just tribute to honorable and courageous patriotism.

THE Underwood costs a little more than other typewriters, but what of it? It is worth more.

And notwithstanding the higher initial cost, the Underwood is more generally used in Canada than all other makes combined.
